Wells pretrial set for July 31

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Tim Wells, former administrator for the village of Antioch will go before Judge Raymond McKosky for a pretrial hearing on Wednesday, July 31.

Wells pleaded not guilty on March 6 to charges that he illegally diverted about $1.5 million from a fund established for Antioch seniors. He was charged on Feb. 20 with three counts of official misconduct, eight counts of forgery, one count of obstructing justice, one count of perjury, unlawful stringing of bids and unlawful interference with contract submission and award by a public official.

George Strickland, chief of the criminal division of the Lake County State's Attorney office said, "Something may or may not happen during the pretrial."

Previously he said his office has compiled 2,000-3,000 pages of documentation supporting the charges against Wells. He added, "We collect evidence up until the jury comes back with the verdict."

If convicted, Wells could face up to 10 years in prison as well as possible pension implications due to the charges of official misconduct.

Strickland said four or five of the counts pertain to the initial diversion of $1.5 million in funds, and the others attempt to cover up those acts. The money, bequeathed to the village by Dolly Spiering for Antioch seniors, was to have been put in a special fund, but was instead used to pay village bills.

Wells is not accused of using any of the money for personal gain.

The eight counts of forgery against Wells stem from four documents that he first forged and then delivered. According to Strickland, the act of delivering a forged document is an act of forgery.

Strickland said Wells "did a cut and paste job" to create documents to make it appear an account had been established for the Spiering fund at the State Bank of The Lakes and then "delivered these documents to the senior council."

Wells also allegedly forged the signature of former mayor Marilyn Shineflug on a "Memorandum of Agreement" that would allow the village to pay Paul Howard, director of the Antioch Senior Center, a $20,000 stipend. Additionally, signatures were forged on the check in that amount to Howard. Both of these documents were delivered to Howard.

Strickland added that Wells also delivered the forged memorandum to investigators from the State's Attorney office leading to the one count of obstruction of justice. "He also lied under oath in front of the Village sets 5-year road plan; first roads completed soon

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Work on Antioch's five-year road repair plan is underway with work on the first five streets to be completed within the month.

Mayor Taso Maravelas said, "This administration is committed to doing the things I campaigned about including taking care of the streets. Now that the litigation for Neumann Homes and Deercrest is mostly behind us, we can do things to better serve the community."

Motor fuel tax (MFT) bonding will be used to pay for the road repair plan. The village's board of directors authorized this bonding in February.

Village administrator Mike Haley said that streets that are to undergo sewer repairs would not be included in the first year of the project. "We don't want to fix up the streets and then have to tear them up to do sewer work," he said.

Haley explained that the process being used to resurface the road chops up the asphalt already in existence and lays it down as a base. From there, another 2 inches of new base material is laid followed by 2 inches of topcoat.

"The nice thing is that residents can drive on this material (ground asphalt) as soon as it's laid," said Haley.

He added that he appreciates the inconvenience this will cause residents as their streets are redone and said that anyone with concerns should call him at 847-395-1000.

The ordinance to collect the motor fuel tax for these repairs was approved on Jan. 21 and is expected to garner $1.78 million. The ordinance stipulates that the amount not exceed $2 million.

The first year's work is estimated at just under $400,000. The following streets are slated for that work: Maplewood from Bridgewood to Oakwood, Edgewood, Sunset, Timber, Naber, Osmond, Hennings Court, Hidden Creek to Birch Hollow for patching, engineering work to Lake and Anita streets and other miscellaneous repair.

Shoulder work and drainage work would be included as part of the repairs made. All of the roads that are within the village limits and under the village control (i.e. not roads like Route 83 that is state owned) will be redone within five years.

"This administration is catching up with what was leftover from 15 years ago," said Maravelas.

Police locate 2nd driver in fatal crash

By BRENDA BALIN-BEITSCHER
Staff Reporter

An 18-year-old Antioch male has been identified as the second driver in a fatal accident that occurred on July 19, at about 7:15 p.m., on Gelden Road, west of Grass Lake.

The crash, allegedly caused by drag racing, took the lives of Jan

Rodrigo Legaspi-Buduan, 16, of Lindenhurst, who was driving a black 1999 Honda Prelude, a gift from his parents. His passenger, Alex Brown, 16, of Lake Villa, also died when the car spun out of control and struck a utility pole.

Witnesses told the Lake County Sheriff's Department they had seen

Hausman 'theatrical' in treatment of flowers

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Tom Hausman, probably best known as president of the PM&L Theatre and the work he does there, showed his flair for the dramatic in the flowers he chose to grow, cut, arrange and enter in the Lake County Fair.

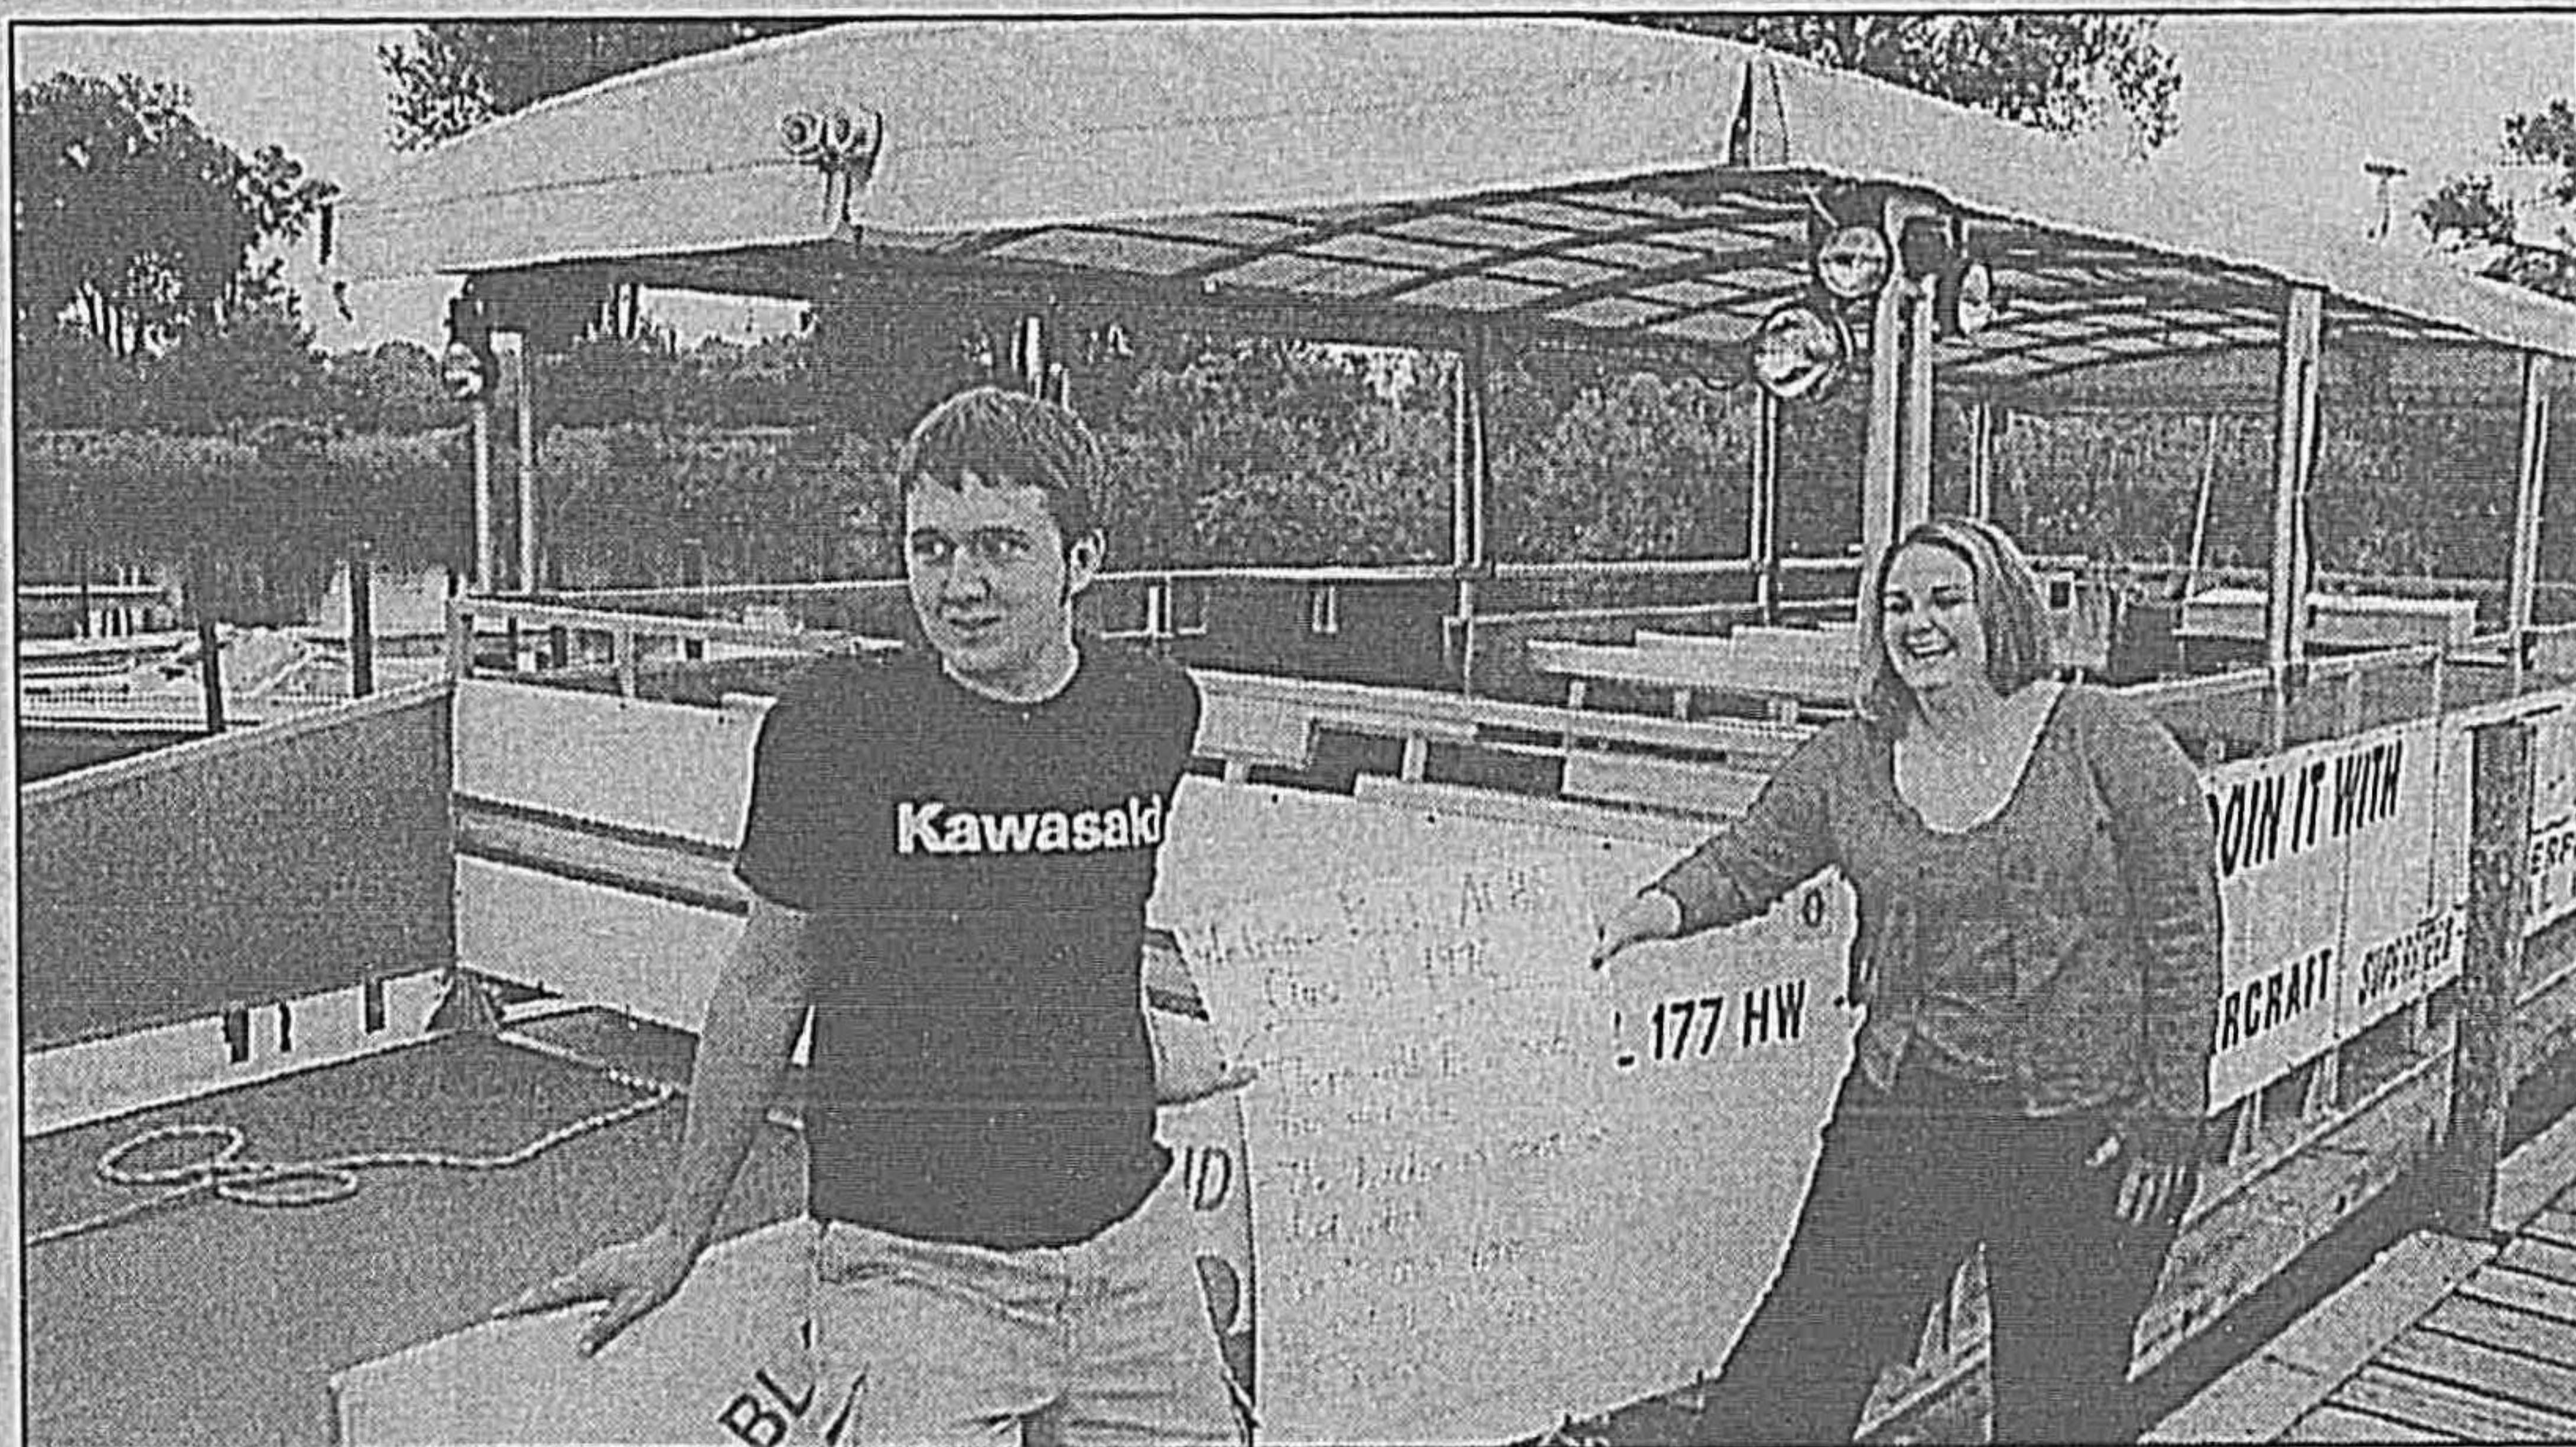

"I've been participating in the fair since 1984 and have taken home at least one trophy a year since 1985, with my highest being five trophies in one year," he said.

This year he had champion roses, dahlias and stargazer lilies as well as a first-place geranium and first- and second-place hydrangeas.

Hausman said he got interested in roses first, as he needed a summer hobby when he was a schoolteacher

Village works to improve water quality

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

"We know we have some water quality issues," said Mike Haley, village administrator. "Everything takes both time and money and we're getting there."

The Consumer Confidence Report (CCR) done to assess the village's water quality in 2001 indicate that contaminants measured were all with acceptable levels and required no action with the exception of lead. The "action level" of lead is 15 parts per billion (ppb) and in four of more than 20 samples taken, the level was higher.

William Schroeder, an employee of public works for the Village of Antioch, said that they re-tested once already with 40 samples taken instead of the 20 for the report and the levels were found to be acceptable. He said the village "has one more test to go."

He said the bad samples taken came from the older parts of town in houses owned by older, possibly single individuals, and that the significance of that was that not as much water runs through the household pipes so contaminants can collect.

"Some older homes even have lead faucets," he said. "We add a polyphosphate that coats the pipes, but sometimes enough water isn't run for it to do what it's supposed to do."

Schroeder added, "We don't pump any lead out of the wells. The lead comes from the water service to the house."

Water for the village is pumped from six groundwater wells from aquifers at depths ranging from 147-247 feet below the surface of the ground. Drinking water is tested and monitored as required by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA).

"The drinking water is safe," said Schroeder. "The fact that they can even measure parts per billion is amazing. That's one gallon out of every billion. It's a very small amount."

The full report can be read on the village's web site at www.antioch-il.org.

The report says, "If you are concerned about elevated lead levels in your home's water, flush your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using tap water. Additional information is available from the USEPA Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791). You also may wish to have your water tested by calling the Lake County Health Department at 847-360-6737."

Mayor Taso Maravelas said, "Improving water quality is one of the things I campaigned for and we have things in the works now to see that that is accomplished."

Cafe caters to computer crowd

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Despite the name, cookies are not the main attraction at one of Antioch's newest downtown storefronts. The Cookie Shop is an Internet café that mostly caters to those between high school and college age.

"There are some people who stop in to check their e-mail, but mostly it's the games that bring them (customers) in," said Joel Mosier, one of the store's three owners.

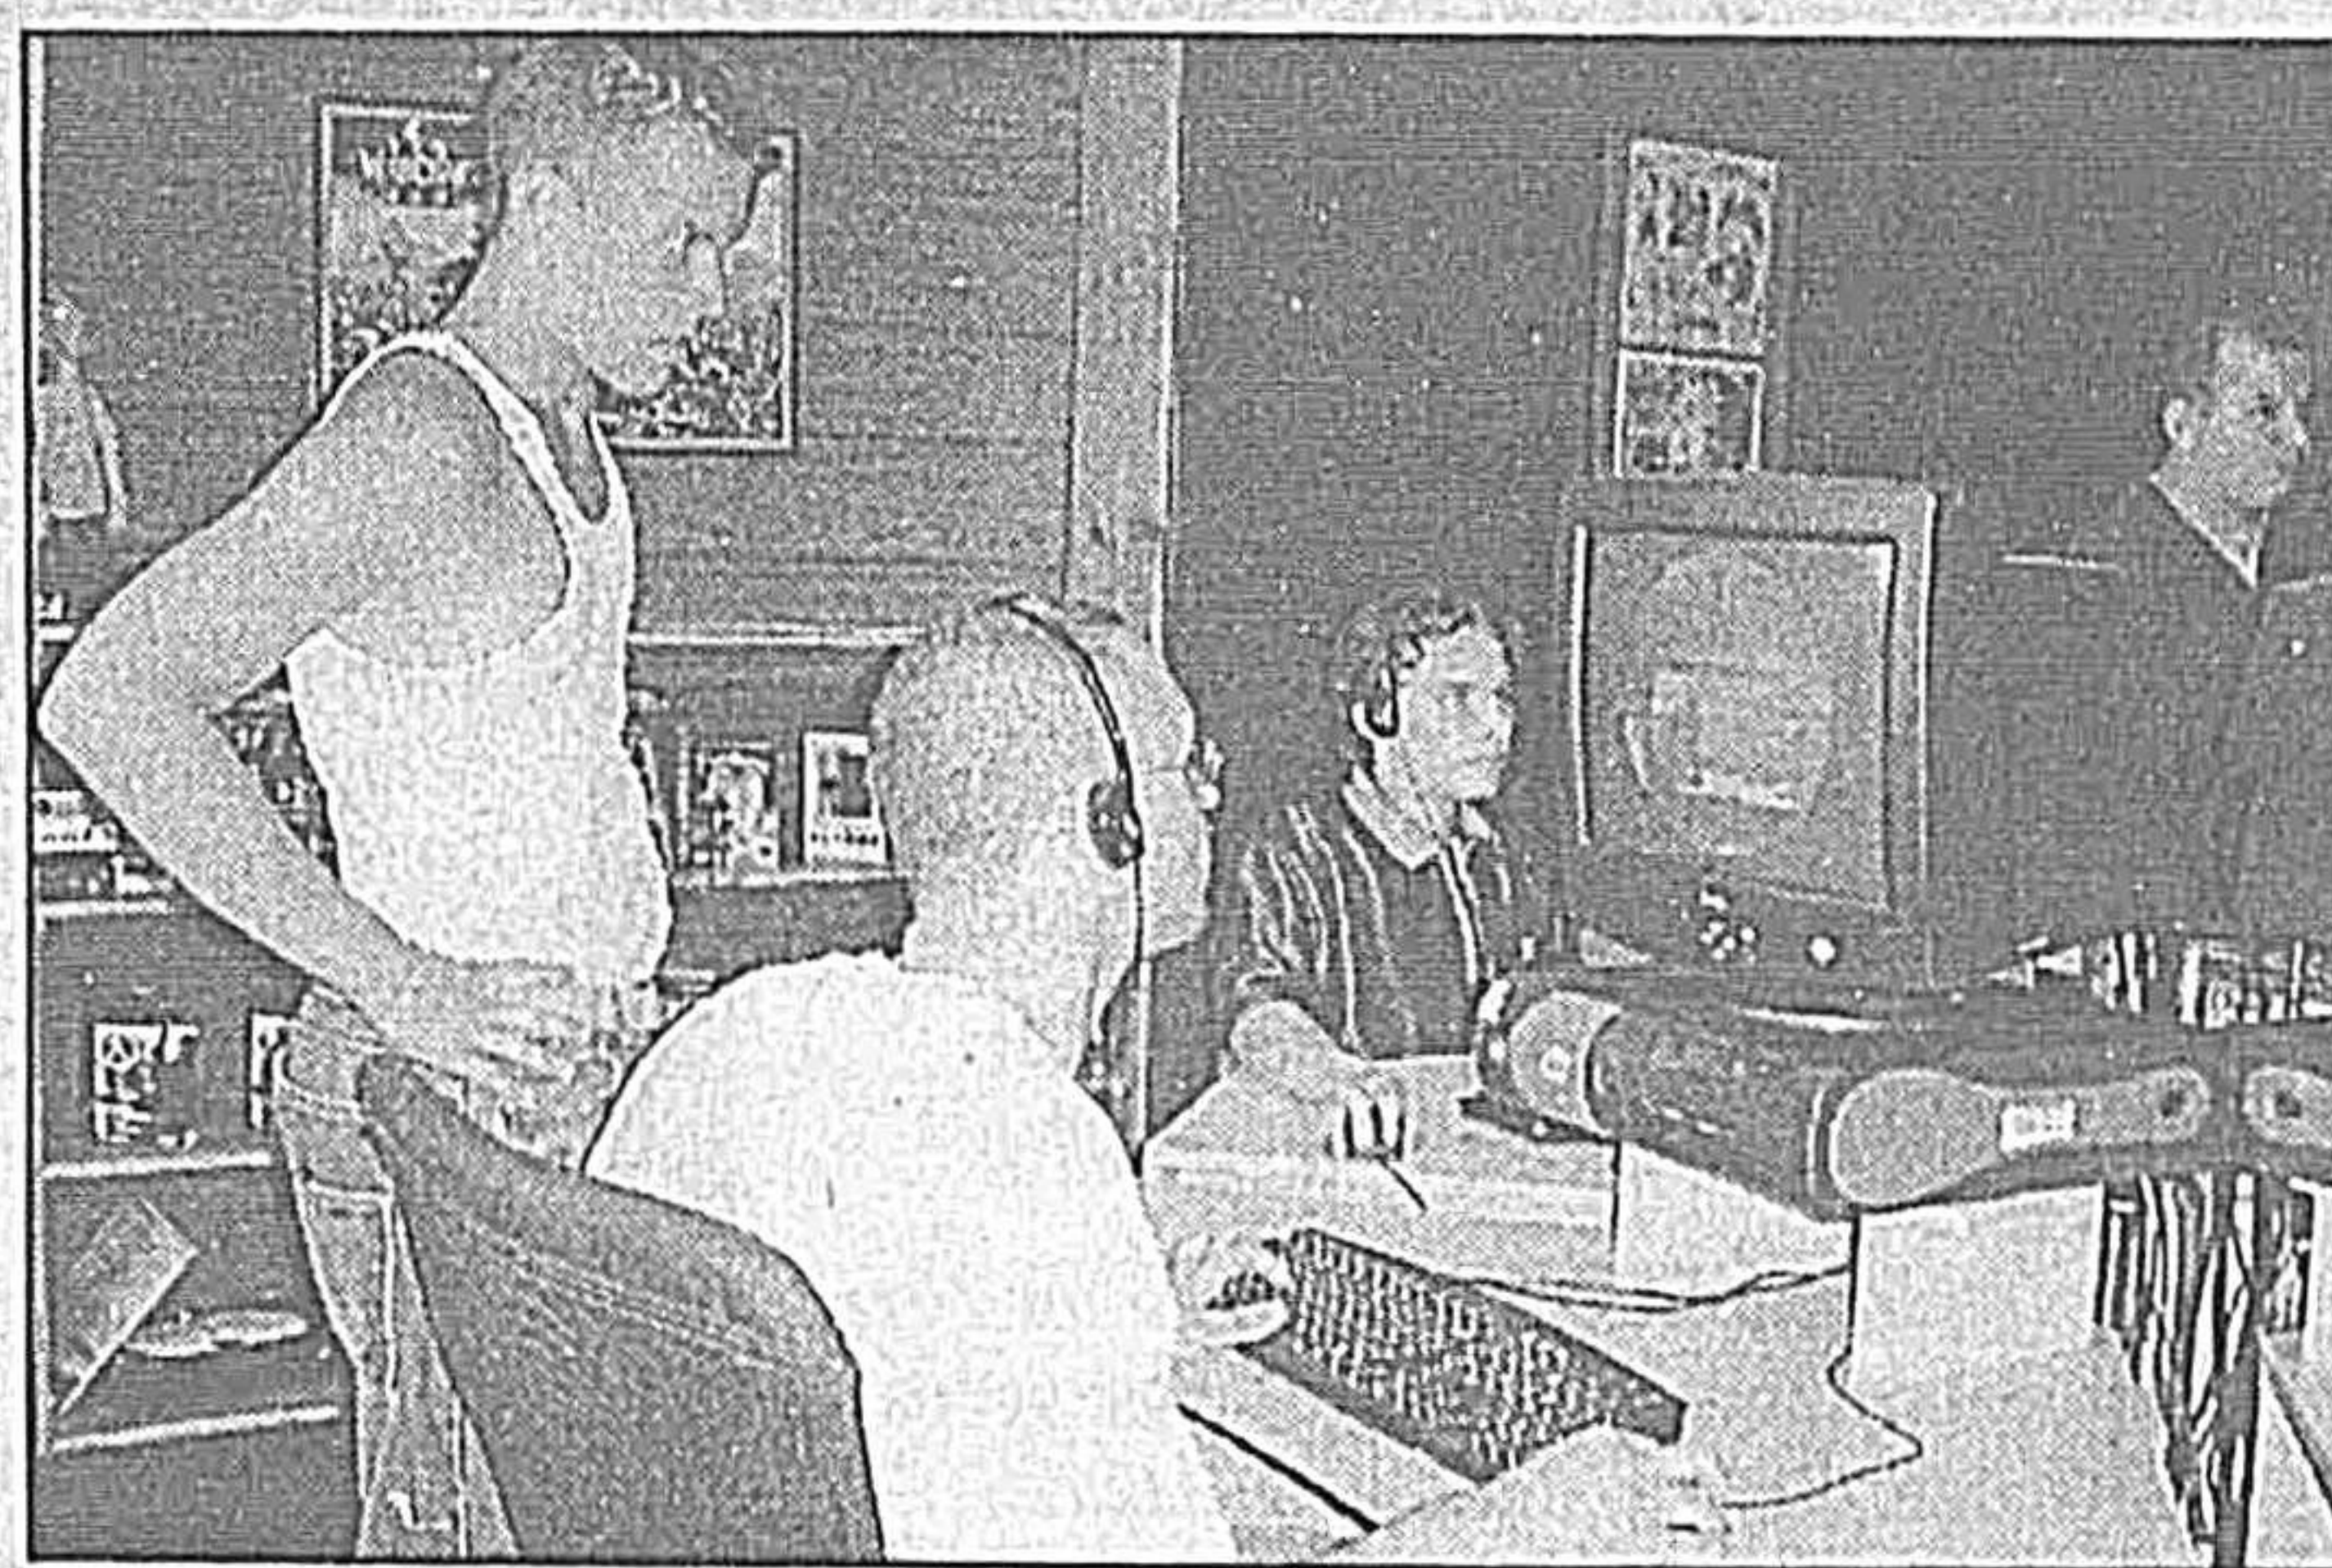

Coffee, cookies, pop and candy are served, but most are there to play high tech games on the Internet individually, or as part of a team. "CounterStrike" an offshoot of the game "Half-Life" is one of the favorites.

The café held its first CounterStrike tournament and attracted three teams of players. Each of the teams was required to play five maps (location setting for the game) and traded off between being terrorists and counter terrorists.

Keith Bentel, another of the store's owners, explained that the teams would play in rotation as the café has two banks of four computers each. He likened the game to a video version of paint ball.

"The terrorists will either be trying to plant bombs or will have hostages," he said. "The counter terrorists have to put a stop to the terrorists."

Mosier added that those who play the game often get to the point where they know the maps well, and know where the enemy is likely to be hiding. He said the most difficult part of the game is becoming familiar with the controls and the strategies.

Though there was a $40 team registration fee, the café offered decent payback prizes with first place paying $15 per player plus five hours of playtime. Second place winners each received the five hours of playtime.

Mosier said that he Bentel and Eric Schultz, the third owner, came up with the idea for the café when they were together playing on the Internet.

"We were sitting in one of our houses with a bunch of computer equipment and decided we needed a place where we could go do this," he said. "We pooled our money, rented equipment and here we are."

He said Schultz wrote a program that tracks the time of individual customers. Time packages of all sizes are available from $.15 for one minute to $5 for one hour or an all-day pass for $25, as well as many configurations between.

Chicken barbecue, auction to be held Aug. 4

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Years of experience will surely make the combined annual Antioch Lions Club chicken barbecue (the 44th) and Antioch Rescue Squad auction (the 28th) a day of good food, good fun and good deals for all who attend.

The event will be held on Aug. 4 at Williams Park located behind the Antioch Public Library and will run from 11 a.m.-6 p.m.

A barbecue chicken dinner, complete with fresh dessert, can be enjoyed in the park or carried out for $8. An ear of locally grown sweet corn will cost an extra buck.

"When the event first started the Lions Club was in charge of both the auction and the barbecue," said Antioch Rescue Squad Chief Wayne Sobczak. "We took over the auction years later as all the proceeds went to us anyway."

The proceeds from the food sales go to the Antioch Lions Club to support the community projects and programs it supports, while the money raised in the auction is used for the rescue squads' operating expenses. Typically, about 3,000 people will be served chicken and nearly $50,000 will be raised for the rescue squad.

The auction is broken up into three segments: a treasure booth, a silent auction and a live auction. Additional raffles are held for cash and gift certificates.

"There will be drop raffles for the gift certificates this year," said Sobczak. "Unlike the past, you'll know the value of the bag and what is in there, like live for dinner at the Harbor Club."

The treasure booth is made up of garage-sale type items. The silent auction has nice items and antiques, as does the live auction.

"The Junior Women's Club runs the treasure booth for us," said Sobczak. "It's a good size tent filled with smaller items that still have value, but aren't really the things we'd auction."

Some of the items being auctioned off will include antique furniture including oak tables, dressers, pickle crocks, sleds (from the turn of the last century), and clocks. "There are smaller antiques, too, that will be part of the silent auction," added

Sobczak.

New items include a lawn tractor donated by Bob's Marina, two Schwinn bikes donated by Antioch Schwinn, as well as an chain saw and an outdoor fireplace that were both donated by Kaydan Trophy.

"Body Craft has donated some cordless power tools (new), and Raymond Chevrolet always donates a very nice used vehicle," said Sobczak. "We also have a pre-owned pickup truck and a big screen television."

All in all, several hundred items will be auctioned off to the highest bidders. Some of these items can be viewed at either the State Bank of The Lakes or the First National Bank-Employee Owned.

Swimming is only $.25 at the community pool on that day, and there will be children's games, complete with prizes, that begin at 1 p.m.

"I can't list all of the things we'll be auctioning off as this is the biggest week for donations to come in," concluded Sobczak. Those wishing to make a last-minute donation should call Village Hall 847-395-1000, the Township Hall 847-395-3378 or Sobczak 847-395-1010.

With a cluck cluck here...

To me, one of the neatest things about going to the Lake County Fair is seeing all of the 4-H exhibits that remind us the area's roots are agricultural, and that these roots aren't being lost in a suburban traffic jam.

Some of Antioch's own flew the coop with a successful year in poultry production. Michael Olson, 14, and Tom Olson, 11, showed off Bantams of all varieties (and who knew there were so many), as well as Australorps and Plymouth Bock Barred.

I didn't count all of their cages let alone all of their birds, but between the two, there must have been at least 50 birds on display for the enjoyment of all the fair-goers.

Mike and Tom share the title for "best poultry egg production," and Tom took the additional title

DUI

Gerald Walsh, 62, of 661 Main St., Antioch, was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol on July 29 at 11:18 p.m. on Hillside at Orchard.

Police followed him after he disobeyed a stop sign and witnessed him cross over the centerline twice. When an officer approached his car, Walsh exited the vehicle and stumbled.

The officer detected the strong odor of alcoholic beverage on Walsh's breath. He failed all field sobriety tests requested of him.

Walsh was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Department where he was put through booking procedures and issued a citation for DUI. His driving record was checked and information returned that he had two prior DUIs.

Walsh refused chemical testing and was issued additional citations for disobeying a stop sign, and two counts of improper lane usage. He was released on personal recognizance pending his Aug. 20 court date.

Juan N. Hernandez, 27, of 4711 38th Street, Kenosha, was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol on July 28 at 12:32 a.m. on Route 173 east of Tallman.

Hernandez was arrested, but resisted being handcuffed and then refused to get into the squad car. He was transported to the Antioch Police Department where he was put through booking procedures and issued a citation for DUI.

Hernandez's blood alcohol concentration came back at .134 and he was issued additional citations for improper lane usage, violating the minimum speed limit, DUI over .08 and resisting arrest. He was released on a $300 cash bond pending his Aug. 20 court date.

No valid driver's license

April D. Schwerman, 31, of 2229 Shannondale, Green Oaks, was arrested for driving with no valid driver's license on July 30 at 12:58 a.m. on Route 59 at Bowles Rd.

She was locked traveling 58 mph in a 45-mph zone. She told police she didn't have a valid driver's license and gave the officer an expired insurance card.

A check of Schwerman's identifiers through LEADS/NCIC/SOS came back with information that she had no valid driver's license in Illinois and that her Indiana driver's license had been suspended.

She was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Department where she was put through booking procedures and issued citations for no valid driver's license, speeding and having no insurance.

Schwerman was released on personal recognizance pending her Aug. 28 court date.

Suspended driver's license

Jessica R. Patterson, 31, of 1208 Midway Drive, Rockford, was arrested for driving with a suspended driver's license on July 29 at 3:31 p.m. on Route 173 at the railroad crossing.

Police saw her make an improper U turn while the railroad crossing arm was down. She told police her driver's license was suspended and that she didn't have an insurance card with her.

A check of Patterson's identifiers through LEADS/SOS confirmed that her driver's license had been suspended.

She was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Department where she was put through booking procedures and issued citations for an improper turn, driving while suspended and the operation of an uninsured vehicle.

Patterson was released on personal recognizance pending her Aug. 28 court date.

The pros and cons of home schooling

Have you ever considered home schooling your child? Why do people home school? What does it involve? The best way to get answers to these questions is to talk to people who have taught their children at home. Allow me to give you some first-hand information.

Debbie Geib of Antioch is beginning her third year of home school teaching. She chose to home school for personal decisions and convictions. Son Ricky was taught at home for the last two years for seventh and eighth grade. Ricky will attend Antioch High School this year. Debbie's daughter Hannah has been home schooled for second and third grade and will continue at home for fourth grade this year.

Debbie is an R.N. and works part-time delivering babies at home, teaching birthing classes, and does post-partum visits.

There are many "pros" of home schooling according to Debbie. Having one-on-one time and a lot of quality time with your child is really important. Seeing good values instilled in your child and being there as a parent to answer the "life lessons" questions both rank high. If a child is weak in one subject, more time can be spent in that area. You can change the teaching schedule to meet your child's needs if they are tired or bored. Your son or daughter can learn at his or her own pace.

"Being a college graduate, even I am learning," commented Debbie.

How does a working Mom do it? Working part-time with a flexible schedule allows Debbie to work and home school. Her husband Rich who works a rotating schedule at a power plant pitches in to supervise and help.

Debbie said lessons are laid out the night before so everyone knows what is expected. Trade-off time with another mom works well too. Debbie's friend, a reading teacher tutors in reading in exchange for lessons in health and science.

How many hours a day is spent on home school? That can vary. "At least three hours of teaching and study time," says Debbie. Weekly projects in art or home economics such as cooking with mom and workshop and garage projects with dad are part of the Geib's home school curriculum. Trips to the library for research are necessary.

Field trips with grandparents build relationships as well as give added learning time. In addition, both Ricky and Hannah have taken weekly music lessons. Ricky has had guitar and drum lessons through Lakes Area Music Center in Antioch. Hannah has taken piano lessons from a private teacher. Lessons in budgeting, designing, planning, and layout were learned by Ricky as he and his mom planted new flowerbeds.

What about socialization skills? Debbie said being involved in home school groups, church, and youth groups have provided great opportunities for making friends. Often children can take leadership positions in home school groups. Hannah makes weekly visits to the nursing home with her neighbor. Yearly activities such as the Annual Home School Day at Great America provide a wonderful opportunity to make new friends. This year's event, strictly for home school families, will be held on Sept. 5th.

Extra benefits such as choosing your child's curriculum to reflect your values is a plus to home schooling. Wonderful supplements such as "God's World News" provides weekly information on current events and has a question and answer section to enhance learning. Debbie has taken Ricky and Hannah with her on post-partum visits. Both Ricky and Hannah were born at home and can relate well to others on these visits. Home schooling provides time to take pictures and assemble life-long memory albums.

Marnae Persik of Bristol taught her daughter April at home for all grade school years except two and all of her high school years. April graduated from college cum laude and is doing very well in her chosen field. Marnae was a full-time home school teacher/parent. "April was a self-motivated child and easy to home school," remarked Marnae.

"To observe your child learn firsthand is comparable to watching your baby take her first step." "Nothing can replace a one-on-one teaching time." "You can pursue special interests because you have the time." "You can choose the curriculum that you want and that your child needs." These are some of the many reasons Marnae chose to home school her daughter.

Home schooling does require a tremendous amount of time to do it right, often requiring much driving time commented Marnae. Time spent can vary from four to eight hours per day. April took voice, clarinet, and piano lessons weekly. She was involved in home school groups, kids programs, and youth groups at church. Field trips to Chicago attractions and museums, Old World Wisconsin, Washington, D.C. and mission trips to other countries were also a part of April's learning.

Marnae said they never got more than a day behind in home school lessons. Hard work paid off for April, as she was able to CLEP out on college tests for credit. "Sometimes it can be hard to get out of the 'teaching mode' and just enjoy your child," said Marnae. But home schooling provided the time to build a close relationship with her daughter, something they still have today.

Casual day benefits neglected children

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Employees of the First National Bank-Employee Owned (FNBE) will pay $2 for the privilege of dressing casually on Friday, July 29 to benefit a Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA).

"Customers and community members are invited to join us in helping this cause with a donation," said Karen Kubin, marketing director at the bank. "FNBE is committed to community involvement, and this is a really worthy cause."

CASA of Lake County works with the court system to help children who are wards of the court due to abuse or neglect. CASA volunteers are highly trained to work one-on-one with these abused and neglected children, ultimately doing the research and advocacy needed to make a recommendation to the court that will best help the child.

For more information, call Kubin at 847-838-2265. Donations can be mailed to the FNBE c/o Casual Because We Care, 485 Lake Street, Antioch, IL 60002.

Check with the village hall, park district, library and local merchants for more options.

Musically speaking, there are many opportunities throughout the county to enjoy a free outdoor concert. Especially for children, the village of Round Lake Beach and the Round Lake Area Park District present the last in a series of free concerts at North Shore Park on Friday, Aug. 2. The final concert in the free series is Aug. 4 with the country favorite hits of Jonathan Devin & New Country. The concert is from 6:30-8 p.m. Attendees are encouraged to bring lawn chairs or blankets and a picnic dinner.

'1776' revival a timely ode to freedom

The timing on Marriott Theatre's revival of "1776," a patriotic musical by Sherman Edwards and based on a book by Peter Stone, couldn't be better.

The words and songs of delegates from the Continental Congress, as they struggled one hot summer in Philadelphia, to forge a new nation, took on special poignancy during the July 3 opening night as reflective audience members pondered the continuing threat to freedom in the aftermath of the horrific events of last September.

Directed by Dominic Missimi, "1776" is graced with a superb cast headed by Kevin Gudahl as the unflappable John Adams, who relentlessly prods a divided and lackadaisical Congress to sever ties with the English crown.

Looking back in time, historical facts serve as a tidy record of the military campaign of George Washington and how Congress finally got its act together and signed the Declaration of Independence. "1776," however, probes deeper into the human drama, adding flesh-and-bones insight into patriots like Thomas Jefferson and Benjamin Franklin who risked much in support of a dangerous cause.

Marriott's in-the-round stage adds intimacy as delegates from the original 13 Colonies vent the pros and cons of the split. Roger Mueller, leading the opposition as John Dickinson, a Pennsylvania delegate, brings unbridled passion in his oration to preserve the status quo. Brian Herriott, as South Carolina's spokesman, shakes up both sides with "Molasses to Rum," a powerful vocal disquisition on how slavery was not an issue confined solely to the southern states.

Meanwhile, Howie Smith, in a minor role as courier, delivers "1776's" most soul-stirring number, "Momma Look Sharp," recalling comrades fallen in the field of battle. An ongoing vocal discourse between Adams and his absent wife Abigail (Mary Ernster) also touches the heart. Don Forston does a nice comic turn with "The Lees of Old Virginia."

CRITIC'S CHOICE by Tom Witom

Sean Allan Krill brings out the frustration and loneliness of a Jefferson stuck in muggy Pennsylvania miles from home and expected to draft the historic declaration in one week's time. David Lively's Franklin is intelligent, human — and fun.

"1776" is well researched; its dialogue often is witty. An imperious Adams, impatient at the lack of progress being made with the Declaration of Independence, bemoans, "The world was made in seven days." And Jefferson retorts: "You'll have to tell me how you managed it."

Period costuming by Nancy Missimi and set design by Thomas Ryan are superlative, and Terry James's musical direction doesn't miss a beat.

"1776" runs through Aug. 25. For ticket information, call 847-634-0200.

Share-A-Haircut targets free haircuts for 5,000 Chicago kids

By MEGAN LOISELLE
Staff Reporter

Hair Cuttery wants kids 18 and under to help less fortunate peers around Chicago by participating in the 3rd annual Share-A-Haircut campaign.

From now through Aug. 15, Hair Cuttery's nationwide will donate a free haircut for every haircut purchased to an underprivileged child in the same community. The goal is to donate 50,000 haircuts throughout the United States.

"Share-A-Haircut is a call to all kids to 'look good, do good and feel good,'" said Dennis Ratner, founder and CEO of Ratner Companies, Hair Cuttery's parent corporation.

The program helps children realize how it feels to help someone less fortunate in their own community, encouraging a feeling of giving and social responsibility. It also helps unfortunate children feel good about themselves as they go back to school with a new haircut.

Share-A-Haircut is a great program for all involved, giving every kid's hair the personal touch it deserves, and at the same time, giving the kids a lesson on community involvement just in time for back to school.

You can participate on any Hair Cuttery location, including 108 in the Chicago area, downstate Illinois, southern Wisconsin and northwest Indiana. Log on to www.haircuttery.com or call 800-956-HAIR for locations.

Calvin Cummings (Blair Underwood) is an actor, who portrays an actor named Nicholas in "Rendezvous," the movie being shot during the making of the "documentary."

Francesca Davis (Julia Roberts) is the co-star of "Rendezvous." She plays Catherine, a magazine writer who is conducting an interview with Nicholas. There is an obvious sexual chemistry between the two characters.

Lee and Carl Bright (Catherine Keener and David Hyde Pierce) are in a troubled marriage. Lee is sexually frustrated and bitter. In her job as a Human Resource VP, she has an off-beat and harassing approach to recruiting. She further indulges her sexual fantasies with a lover.

Carl is a self-effacing man who is a writer and whose wife finds him boring. He is surprisingly compassionate as he talks with a young woman who comes to his dog's rescue. The scenes are quietly hilarious and evocative for anyone who was of age in the '60s.

Arty (Enrico Colantoni) is Carl's collaborator on a play about Hitler, written with modern day colloquialisms. A lonely man who dabbles with meeting women on the Internet, he has lied about his name and age and has arranged to meet a woman in Tucson, which is where she thinks he lives. As you might guess, the woman too has lied about her identity. Linda (Mary McCormack), who happens to be Lee's sister, agrees to meet Arty in Tucson. As a masseuse she never gives clients her real name. She's known as Ann, which is what she tells Arty.

In the fictionalized film "Rendezvous," Catherine interviews Nicholas and asks if he's ever gone to a therapist. Instantly, he says "No." He can't relate to someone who is "selling you to yourself." The conversations between these two characters reveal much about what society still sees as appropriate portrayals for black actors, especially when it comes to sex. A cab ride shared with Catherine where Nicholas raps on "the state of the chocolate leading man in Hollywood" is worth the price of admission. And the closing shot for "Rendezvous" sums it up.

The ever talked about, seldom seen mega-producer Gus (David Duchovny) is the pivotal character around whom everyone seems to orbit. Gus is definitely ready for his close-up as he prepares himself in his hotel suite. It's his birthday and there's a big party. He's giving himself a present, which is a tremendous surprise to his waiting guests.

In spite of some self-conscious moments and a few Hollywood insider jokes, this is a fun, easy to follow tale, with a wicked twist.

WHERE MOVIE GOING IS FUN AND AFFORDABLE

SIGNS

Rating
PG 13 for some frightening moments

Director
M. Night Shyamalan

Starring
Mel Gibson
Joaquin Phoenix
Rory Culkin
Abigail Breslin

Strange crop circles appear in a cornfield 45 miles outside of Philadelphia and in many other places around the world. When seen from an airplane, the series of circles appear to be some type of code, communication or landmark, much like a light-house. In India alone, 18 crop signs have appeared in less than 72 hours. When UFOs suddenly appear without warning, it's clear that aliens are visiting the earth. What's unknown is, Are they friends or enemies?

Graham Hess (Mel Gibson) lost his wife in a tragic accident six months ago. At the same time he lost his faith and left the church where he was a minister; though most townspeople still call him Father Graham. He's still in a great deal of pain, as are his two young children Morgan and Bo (Rory Culkin & Abigail Breslin). Graham's brother Merrill (Joaquin Phoenix) has come to live with them on their farm. He's an odd duck who set five minor league baseball records, including longest home run and most strike outs, which probably explains why he didn't make it to the majors. Merrill's approach to baseball was "it felt wrong not to swing," and Graham's wife Colleen's (Patricia Kalember) last words were "swing away." Much of the fun in "Signs" comes from foreshadowing like this...it's also one of the film's flaws. The entire family is caught up in the mystery of the strange occurrences, with both harrowing and humorous results. They finally come face to face with the cause. Mixed with a number of scary moments that are very well done, the humor allows the wallop of the film's sinister side to have a light touch.

M. Night Shyamalan, who also directed "The Sixth Sense" and "Unbreakable," once again deals with the supernatural. Shyamalan's movies require patience as the story slowly unfolds and we wait for the big payoff at the end. The biggest difference between "Signs" and the prior films is that the closure is not as tight as it should be nor are many of the things that happen along the way. The other movies had you saying at the end, "Now I know why she said that and why he did that then." Here the aliens seem a little light on the IQ and as thick-headed as the doors and board of the board of the board. "Signs" is still a good movie but with such high expectations based upon past performance, I think it was fair to expect more. Even with the faults in the film, this is a must see for all Mel Gibson or Shyamalan fans.

All the Right Moves

By CATHY MACK
Staff Reporter

Editor's note: Due to a printing problem on last week's Lake Life 1 we are reprinting the feature story. We apologize for any inconvenience.

There are more than a billion moves that can be made in the first four plays of a chess game. Frank Swindell, a Grayslake resident and certified chess coach, is on his way to teaching them all to local players.

Since 1995, Swindell has taught hundreds of chess players both the basic and competitive aspects of this centuries-old game. He has taught through school clubs, park districts and community organizations but in April took his passion one step further by opening a one-of-a-kind chess center in Grayslake. Chess Utopia, the brainchild of Swindell and his wife, Cindy, is the only facility in the state where players can come together to learn, compete and play chess.

Chess Utopia, located at 15 Commerce Drive, has already tapped the talents of some 100 young chess players. Although the center has kicked off with a unique summer camp experience, instructor Frank Serrani said Chess Utopia will continue to offer different programs and opportunities as the business grows. In addition to the summer camp, Chess Utopia sponsors tournaments for both adults and youth, offers private instruction, sponsors school teams and takes chess learning "on the road."

Serrani and Swindell met through their own children, who play chess at St. Gilbert's School in Grayslake. Serrani is now a full-time certified chess instructor with Swindell.

"There is nothing else like this in Illinois. We get people coming in off the street just to find out what we are about," said Serrani.

Swindell and Cindy, parents of seven children ages one through 12, are true chess buffs. Through the years of coaching and teaching, the Swindells have taken chess to a new level in the area. Cindy is a substitute teacher but she and Frank both put their full-time efforts into the chess business.

Young chess players fall into two categories, according to Swindell. The competitive chess players are those who subscribe to chess magazines, want to be ranked with the U.S. Chess Federation, are on school teams and often are coached privately so they may move into a professional level of playing. The other type of player is one looking to learn, have fun and simply play the game. Chess Utopia caters to both.

The summer camp is a flexible program that has proven to be very successful in its first year. Chess players pay a fee of approximately $150 to bank 15 hours of chess time and instruction within a three-week session. The participants set their own schedule and the hours are tracked by Chess Utopia. The program offers playing time, game analysis, team chess and activities such as "blitz" chess.

Serrani said families have appreciated this on-going flexible schedule because so many of the chess players are involved in other activities. He said the fall schedule will operate in a similar way, with students setting their own schedules.

The focus of Chess Utopia is on individualized instruction. Participants are placed into groups based on their level of ability, from beginner to advanced players. The minimum age for Chess Utopia instruction is recommended at age 5, or starting kindergarten.

Staff at Chess Utopia includes both Frank and Cindy Swindell, Serrani, Patrick Lacey and Dominick Pedzich. Lacey, of Round Lake, is a student at Carmel High School and is a top-rated chess player in the state.

Pedzich, a native of Poland, is an international chess master and represented Poland on its Olympic chess team for several years. He is a popular instructor for private lessons, but also offers semi-private and group lessons.

In addition to Chess Utopia, Swindell has worked with many area park districts, including Grayslake, Barrington, Libertyville and Vernon Hills.

Swindell said his chess business has instructed more than 500 students in the past year.

Taking chess skills out of the classroom is another aspect of Chess Utopia. Swindell prepares chess players for the ins and outs of competitive playing, even if a student does not plan on competing.

"We don't push kids to compete. Some kids love it but others don't want to compete until they feel very ready or are sure they can win. But we want them all to know how to compete," said Swindell.

Lacey said tournament preparation is helpful for any chess player because it teaches chess etiquette and rules.

A chess tournament is not a typical family outing, said Lacey's dad, Charlie. "It's certainly not like going to a soccer game for your kid," he said. Parents and coaches are not allowed in the often vast competitive playing room, but can watch computerized boards indicating each move or can be found with noses pressed against glass windows to watch. One can also not predict how long a match may take. At official tournaments, a player can take as long as two hours simply to make a move. During that stretch, Lacey said some players might listen to music, read a book, or simply sit and strategize on their own play.

"It's not really much of a spectator sport, but the parents really do get into it. You are thrilled when your child does well, and you feel bad if they lose," said Charlie.

One aspect of chess that Swindell would like to see changed is a significant gender gap. He said there are about 30 males to every female chess player at the competitive level. In the national level, the top 100 ranked players are all males.

Neither Swindell or Serrani are chess competitors, which does not preclude them from being excellent coaches. Swindell said his chess instruction has produced several of the top ranked players in the state. "Not all great chess players are good teachers. Some just don't have the patience," said Serrani.

Lacey is one of the top players that has been coached through Chess Utopia. He said he first got interested in chess about five years ago through a club offered by the Round Lake Park District. Lacey soon learned he had a talent for the game, but Charlie said it was Frank Swindell who took his son's skills to a new level. Patrick is now doing so well in the chess circuit that he is even eyeing the possibility of getting a chess scholarship in college.

"He's a chess maniac," said his dad. "He plays here, he teaches here, then he comes home and wants to play more."

For parents of avid chess players, Chess Utopia offers a place for them to compete with other players at their own level.

For information on Chess Utopia, call 847-816-0869 or 847-223-2360. Email the business at info@chessutopia.org or check the website at www.chessutopia.org.

Music fest raises funds for students

By JEFF ZACHARY
Staff Reporter

Serving the people while promoting community spirit is what Wayne Basica of Round Lake Beach is all about.

Basica, owner of the Village Spirit Pub on Cedar Lake Road in Round Lake Beach, will be hosting a music festival to benefit the Round Lake Senior High School's music department.

The concert will be held on Aug. 3 beginning at 11 a.m. and running late into the night.

"Our main goal is to beat last year's contribution of $2,800," said Basica.

The event consists of eight bands, plenty of food, games, raffles, dunk tanks and much more.

"This year we will have many special events going on between bands and make this festival a one-of-a-kind event," said the bar owner.

To help cover expenses, (bands, sound system, security and other items) the pub is hoping for sponsorships or donations from Round Lake area businesses and residents.

For more information call Basica at 847-546-1100.

Local artists enhance experience at Brookfield Zoo

This summer, families visiting Brookfield Zoo's Hamill Family Play Zoo can participate in a wonderful new Nature Arts Program. On select days, visitors have the opportunity to explore an aesthetic relationship with nature through the visual and performing arts that include dance, poetry, craft activities and storytelling. The program was developed to enhance the exhibit's programming and visitors' experience.

Artists include:

- Judy Petacque of Urban Gateways inspires children to create multi-cultural masks constructed of paper and a variety of fabrics. She will be at the Play Zoo between 1 and 4 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 3.
- Catherine Sky, also of Urban Gateways, uses an array of recyclable materials to engage young visitors in building temporary sculpture habitats such as swamps and forests as well as the animals and plants that live in those environments. She will be at the Play Zoo between 1-4 p.m.

on Tuesday, Aug. 6; Tuesday, Aug. 13; Thursday, Aug. 15; and Thursday, Aug. 17.

- Bim Willow works with children to create "twigloos," structures made from bent willow and other natural materials, at the Play Zoo from 1-5 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 31.
- Children and teens from Maywood Fine Arts perform a variety of original animal and nature-themed dances and poetry readings throughout the Play Zoo at 10 and 11 a.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 13; and Thursday, Aug. 15.

Since the Play Zoo opened in June 2001, zoo staff has engaged young visitors in creative, hands-on activities with nature. Inviting a variety of experts to assist staff in learning more about how children connect with nature continues to strengthen the foundation of programming established in the Play Zoo.

For more information on the Play Zoo, visit the zoo's web site at www.BrookfieldZoo.org or call 708-485-0263. The zoo is located off First Avenue, between the Stevenson (I-55) and Eisenhower (I-290).

Tour natural yards in McHenry

The Wildflower Preservation and Propagation Committee (WPPC) of the McHenry County Defenders announces it's August Natural Yard Tour will take place at 10 a.m. on Saturday, Aug. 3 at the home of Karen and John Shiel, at 4707 Winnegago Dr. in Wonder Lake. The tour starts promptly at 10 a.m. and lasts approximately two hours.

The Shiel's yard contains scattered islands of natural landscaping—all developed over a 15-year period and placed within the confines of an average size city lot. The grounds are planted with a delightful combination of native prairie plants, wood plants and various grasses, including prairie dock, compass plant, and goldenrod, all in a variety of color for late summer.

Directions to this display: Take Route 31 north of McHenry. Turn left on McCullom Lake Road. Go 4.5 miles west to East Wonder Lake Road, turn right. Go a half-mile to Hiawatha Drive and turn left. Go to Winnebago Road and turn right.

The WPPC of the McHenry County Defenders promotes environmental techniques of gardening and landscaping by organizing the seasonal Natural Yards Tours. One weekend day per month, from May through September, the tours focus on a different type of landscaping design, incorporating native plants and grasses. These walks showcase a variety of member's projects and will take place rain or shine. Visiting these natural yards can be inspiring to anyone interested in natural gardening.

For more information call 815-338-0303 or visit their web site; www.mcdef.org.

Mendota's Sweet Corn Festival

promises sweet corn and fun

Tons of free, hot, buttered delicious Del Monte Sweet Corn will be the highlight of the 55th Annual Sweet Corn Festival to be held in Mendota on August 8-11. The Mendota Area Chamber of Commerce is preparing for the enormous undertaking of hosting over 60,000 visitors, who consume nearly 50 tons of sweet corn during Festival weekend.

The festivities begin Thursday evening, August 8 at 6 p.m. Food booths will be serving a multitude of ethnic, regional and festival delights, along with merchandise and commercial booths opening at that time. Illinois Valley Rides will have rides and games for both adults and children in full swing; it's Family Night with all rides $1. The Thursday night line-up will include a Teen Street Dance, featuring the hottest pop and rock music.

Friday's events will begin just prior to noon, when the midways will open and the Carnival will offer an "armband special" from noon-4 p.m. The excitement of "Kids Day" at the Fest builds with performances by the High Action Bikes. These high-flying stunt riders will create a blast of excitement with their bikes soaring off of ramps during three hair-raising shows.

Friday evening's highlights include a performance by the Decatur Park Singers, and the crowning of the Festival Queen. A beer garden will feature the popular band, "Five Year Jacket."

Saturday at 9 a.m., the Crafters Market Place & Flea Market opens for the day. Over 200 dealers in handmade crafts and unique merchandise are expected in Veterans' Park and the Elks Club Parking Lot Show areas. These locations are one-half block apart downtown.

Saturday evening's free entertainment on the AMCORE stage will be "BRITBEAT," performing a musical tribute to "The Beatles."

Sunday begins early with a Fly-In, Drive-In breakfast at Grandpa's Farm Airport, where a country breakfast is served. The Crafters Market Place & Flea Market open for the day downtown at 9 a.m., while "Blue Jean Praise," a contemporary Christian music group.

One of the day's highlights will be the fun-filled Festival Grand Parade at 1 p.m., streaming down the tree-lined streets with over 100 units, including floats, bands, shriners and antique & classic vehicles.

Sunday afternoon features "the big event," the serving of the hot buttered, Del Monte Sweet Corn! It begins at 2 p.m. and continues throughout the afternoon. It is cooked to its golden goodness with the help of a vintage steam engine and drizzled with butter.

For the sports minded, the Sweet Corn Fest hosts a Tennis Tournament featuring adult doubles play on Saturday and adult singles on Sunday at the high school courts.

Don't miss the excitement, for the Festival offers a variety of entertainment events for the entire family. The events take place primarily in the downtown area and, with the exception of the beer garden, have no admission or parking fees.

To get to Mendota take I-294 south or I-355 south to I-88 west, then to I-39 south.

For a listing of events and times check out the web site at www.sweetcornfestival.com or for a free brochure, contact the Mendota Chamber at 815-539-6507 or email mendotachamber@tsf.net.

HOROSCOPE

ARIES - March 21/April 20

You're a good judge of character with a personal issue, Aries. A friend relies upon you for an unbiased assessment of the situation. Expect conflict on Thursday.

TAURUS - April 21/May 21

Your abilities are witnessed by those in influential places, Taurus. Stay on your best behavior and you just may be rewarded with a promotion in a short time.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21

Stay calm and keep your imagination on a short leash when a peculiar situation has you guessing, Gemini. Foes spring up in unlikely places so keep your eyes peeled.

CANCER - June 22/July 22

You're experiencing both emotional and financial wealth this week, Cancer. You seem to have fallen into a pool of good luck. Revel in your newfound fortune by doing something spontaneous.

LEO - July 23/August 23

If you're faced with a brick wall, Leo, start thinking of new ways to scale it. Don't expect the obvious to be the only answer to this problem. If you need some creative thinking ask Virgo.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22

You are usually patient and accepting, Virgo, but someone close to you has gone too far.

It's time to consider if it's really worth it to continue this relationship.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23

Your focus on the material world has more to do with satisfaction than desire, Capricorn. Just be sure not to over-satiate yourself—which could lead to excess. Aquarius proves a good friend.

Suddenly you're tired or bored, Aquarius. A change of pace could make worlds of difference if you can get motivated enough to follow a call of action. Career goals could shift.

in Antioch. "My mother-in-law started me 25 years ago with two rose bushes," he said. "Now I have 200 rose bushes, including miniatures and my first two, as well as annuals and other things."

He said that while he has lived in Antioch 27 years, it became necessary to move 10 years ago to accommodate his hobby. "I still live on the same block, but in a different house," said Hausman. "I moved 145 rose plants from the old house to the new house. It was quite a job, but I had help."

Hausman said that the plants he intends to use for shows are shaded with paper bags and plates and that the flowers are protected from bugs with plastic baggies.

"It's a lot of work, but I love doing," he added.

Hausman has been superintendent of floriculture at the Lake County Fair since 1988, and is the president of the Northeastern Illinois Rose Society.

WELLS

Lake County grand jury on Jan. 16 regarding Shineflug's signature," said Strickland, which led to the charge of perjury against Wells.

According to Strickland, Wells was charged with unlawful stringing of bids because he attempted to make it look like a "private entity" was hiring Diemer Plumbing and Excavating to revamp two bathrooms at the Senior Center. In reality, the village was contracting for the work to be done and that is an "open bid situation."

The second illegal bid was to move the Scout House. Strickland said Wells "flat out never went to get bids." He added that both state and Antioch ordinance require a bidding process for anything over $10,000.

In a correspondence from Wells to village trustees in service during his tenure to explain his actions, Wells said of the Spiering money: "No one, including Mayor Shineflug, any of the previous board members, village staff, Paul Howard, senior advisory council members knew about how and where the funds of Dolly Spiering were being used or not being used."

A five-percent utility tax increase has been levied on natural gas, electricity and phone service in Antioch to cover the costs of repaying a bank loan to repay the Spiering fund for seniors. The tax will only be in place for about three years, and will be immediately repealed when the loan is repaid.

a small white car leave the scene.

The name of the second driver, who was behind the wheel of a white Mitsubishi Eclipse, has not been released, as charges have not yet been made.

The driver told police the black Honda overtook him on Gelden Road, and lost control as it attempted to return to the right lane.

The driver denied having any contact with the Honda, and told police he fled the scene because he was afraid.

Police are taking samples of paint from the Mitsubishi to determine if there is paint transfer from the Honda.

The Sheriff's Department received about a dozen calls from Antioch High School parents, leading to the identification of the Mitsubishi driver.

Teens mourning at the scene of the crash one week later, on July 26, acknowledged that "Jan loved to race."

Although police have determined the accident took place at a high rate of speed, Legaspi-Buduan's parents have denied their son would drive fast. The Mitsubishi driver has also denied racing.

This Grayslake football player has the right idea last summer after two-a-day practices started—water, plenty of water.—File photo

The heat is on

Prep athletes planning on participating in a fall sport, listen up! Here's a little refresher. Your rigorous training will be starting soon, if not already.

Football players need to take even more serious notice as to what's been happening lately. Heat index, oh, around 112-degrees. Temperatures hovering in the mid-90s.

And you'll be having two-a-day practices starting in a couple of short weeks.

Yes, the dog days of summer, which granted, don't last forever. We have to be proactive when it comes to battling intense heat. Does the name Corey Stringer ring a bell? Stringer was an All-Pro lineman for the Minnesota Vikings who died almost a year ago to the day. From what—heat exhaustion and dehydration, which led to heat stroke and ultimately death.

Precisely why you need to pay very close attention to the initial signs associated with heat exhaustion.

Fatigue and dizziness, muscle cramps, disorientation or confusion, vomiting and dryness of skin. When these signs set in, beware! It basically means that there are not enough fluids in the body, as to open the pores and facilitate sweating.

Ice packs to the back of the neck, getting the athlete in front of a fan and or to a shaded area, or even hosing them down with water will get the core body temperature down because the blood is coming and going through the brain. When heat exhaustion sets in, the brain tissue starts to deteriorate. Hence, no blood is circulating.

Drinking plenty of water is the best prevention. Athletes who train in the intense heat should drink water with ongoing regularity. Remember the body is 90 percent water.

If the aforementioned signs are ignored, look out! You don't want to enter the next stage, which is heat stroke. If the skin starts feeling like needles and pins or is hot and dry, you're in trouble.

In this stage, the heart could stop because the brain is not telling the heart to pump blood.

Again, when signs of heat stroke set in, get the athlete to a shaded area and call 911 immediately. Time is of the essence here.

Athletic trainers and coaches need to keep a close eye on any athletes that may appear woozy or feeling fatigued.

"Our main job is to stabilize them and cool them down," said Larry Scire, director of sports medicine at Condell Medical Center.

Scire also said that one of the worst things an overheated athlete can do is drink caffeinated beverages. That's because they contain sugar and salt, both of which require water anyway for digestion.

So fellas, there's no need to portray that macho attitude that usually accompanies the mindset of a football player. Look for the signs and adhere. Drink lots of water. Let's get through the heat and make this yet another fall sports season to remember—one that is not marred by any tragedies that deal with something that is well within our control.

Meatballs, plenty of baseball awaits Lancers

By ROB BACKUS
Staff Reporter

After close to 30 years in the dugout, amassing a 929-365 in the process, CLC men's baseball coach Gene Hanson has been given the opportunity to take his knowledge of the game overseas to Italy.

Hanson will take 15 Chicagoland players, from various colleges including National Louis University, Illinois State University and Valparaiso University.

The trip, which will take place from August 2-15, is sponsored by USA Athletes International, a national amateur organization that sponsors trips abroad.

"They invited me to take a team to Italy and because I've never done anything like that before I agreed," said Hanson.

In addition to the 10 players from various Chicagoland colleges and universities, Hanson will also be taking four of his own players including: Russ Schaibly, Chris Draska, Jason Schuler and George Fuchs and 2001 CLC graduate Brett McCollum, now at the University of Indianapolis.

Former Warren Blue Devil Schaibly, a pitcher and first baseman, hit .365 with 59 RBI and 48 runs scored and also amassed an 8-2 record and a 2.34 ERA in his first year as a Lancer. The season earned him JUCO All American, 1st team All Conference and All State and Northern Illinois JUCO All Star honors.

"It's a great honor," said Schaibly. "I've never been overseas before, so it will be a great experience for me. I think it will definitely help me for next year. I've also been playing with the Kenosha Indians so this is the first time I'll be playing baseball year round."

Chris Draska of Lake Forest hit .328 with nine home runs, 38 RBI and 38 runs scored while playing outfield for CLC. His season earned him 2nd team All Conference and Northern Illinois JUCO All Star honors.

Sequoit Jason Schuler, known for his defense and cannon arm behind the plate, threw out 50 percent of runners attempting to steal and also hit .318 with 35 RBI. His play also earned him 2nd team All Conference and Northern Illinois JUCO All Star honors.

"I'm really looking forward to this once in a lifetime chance," said Schuler, who will play at the University of Indianapolis next season on a three-quarter athletic scholarship. "I'm also looking forward to playing teams from overseas and to seeing the sights."

George Fuchs, also a former Sequoit, hit .307 with 29 RBI while also playing a stellar second base and was a part of 28 double plays.

And McCollum, another former Sequoit and 2001 CLC graduate and first baseman at the University of Indianapolis, earned state

Player of the Year, 1st team All Conference, All State and JUCO All American honors in 2001 for CLC.

The team will play seven Italian college level teams in cities such as: Milan, Venice, Rimini, San Marino, Rome and Vatican City.

"We'll be playing some of the best teams Italy has to offer," said Hanson. "It's an opportunity to compete against European teams and it's also an opportunity for a cultural exchange."

Hanson is also excited, not only from a baseball standpoint, but from a cultural standpoint as well.

"Historically, Italy is a wonderful country and I'm looking forward to seeing the sights," said Hanson. "I'm happy to do this and I'm looking forward to doing it again."

Carmel loaded with talent all across the board

By MICHAEL J. BIVONA
Correspondent

With the ending of Carmel High School's first summer football camp, the team's confidence and focus is at an all-time high.

According to head coach Andy Bitto, the team has some work to do before it plays Loyola in its season opener Aug. 30. Rest assured, though, the Corsairs will be fully prepared when that date arrives.

'We're looking to improve upon last year. We got too close last year to let it all get away'

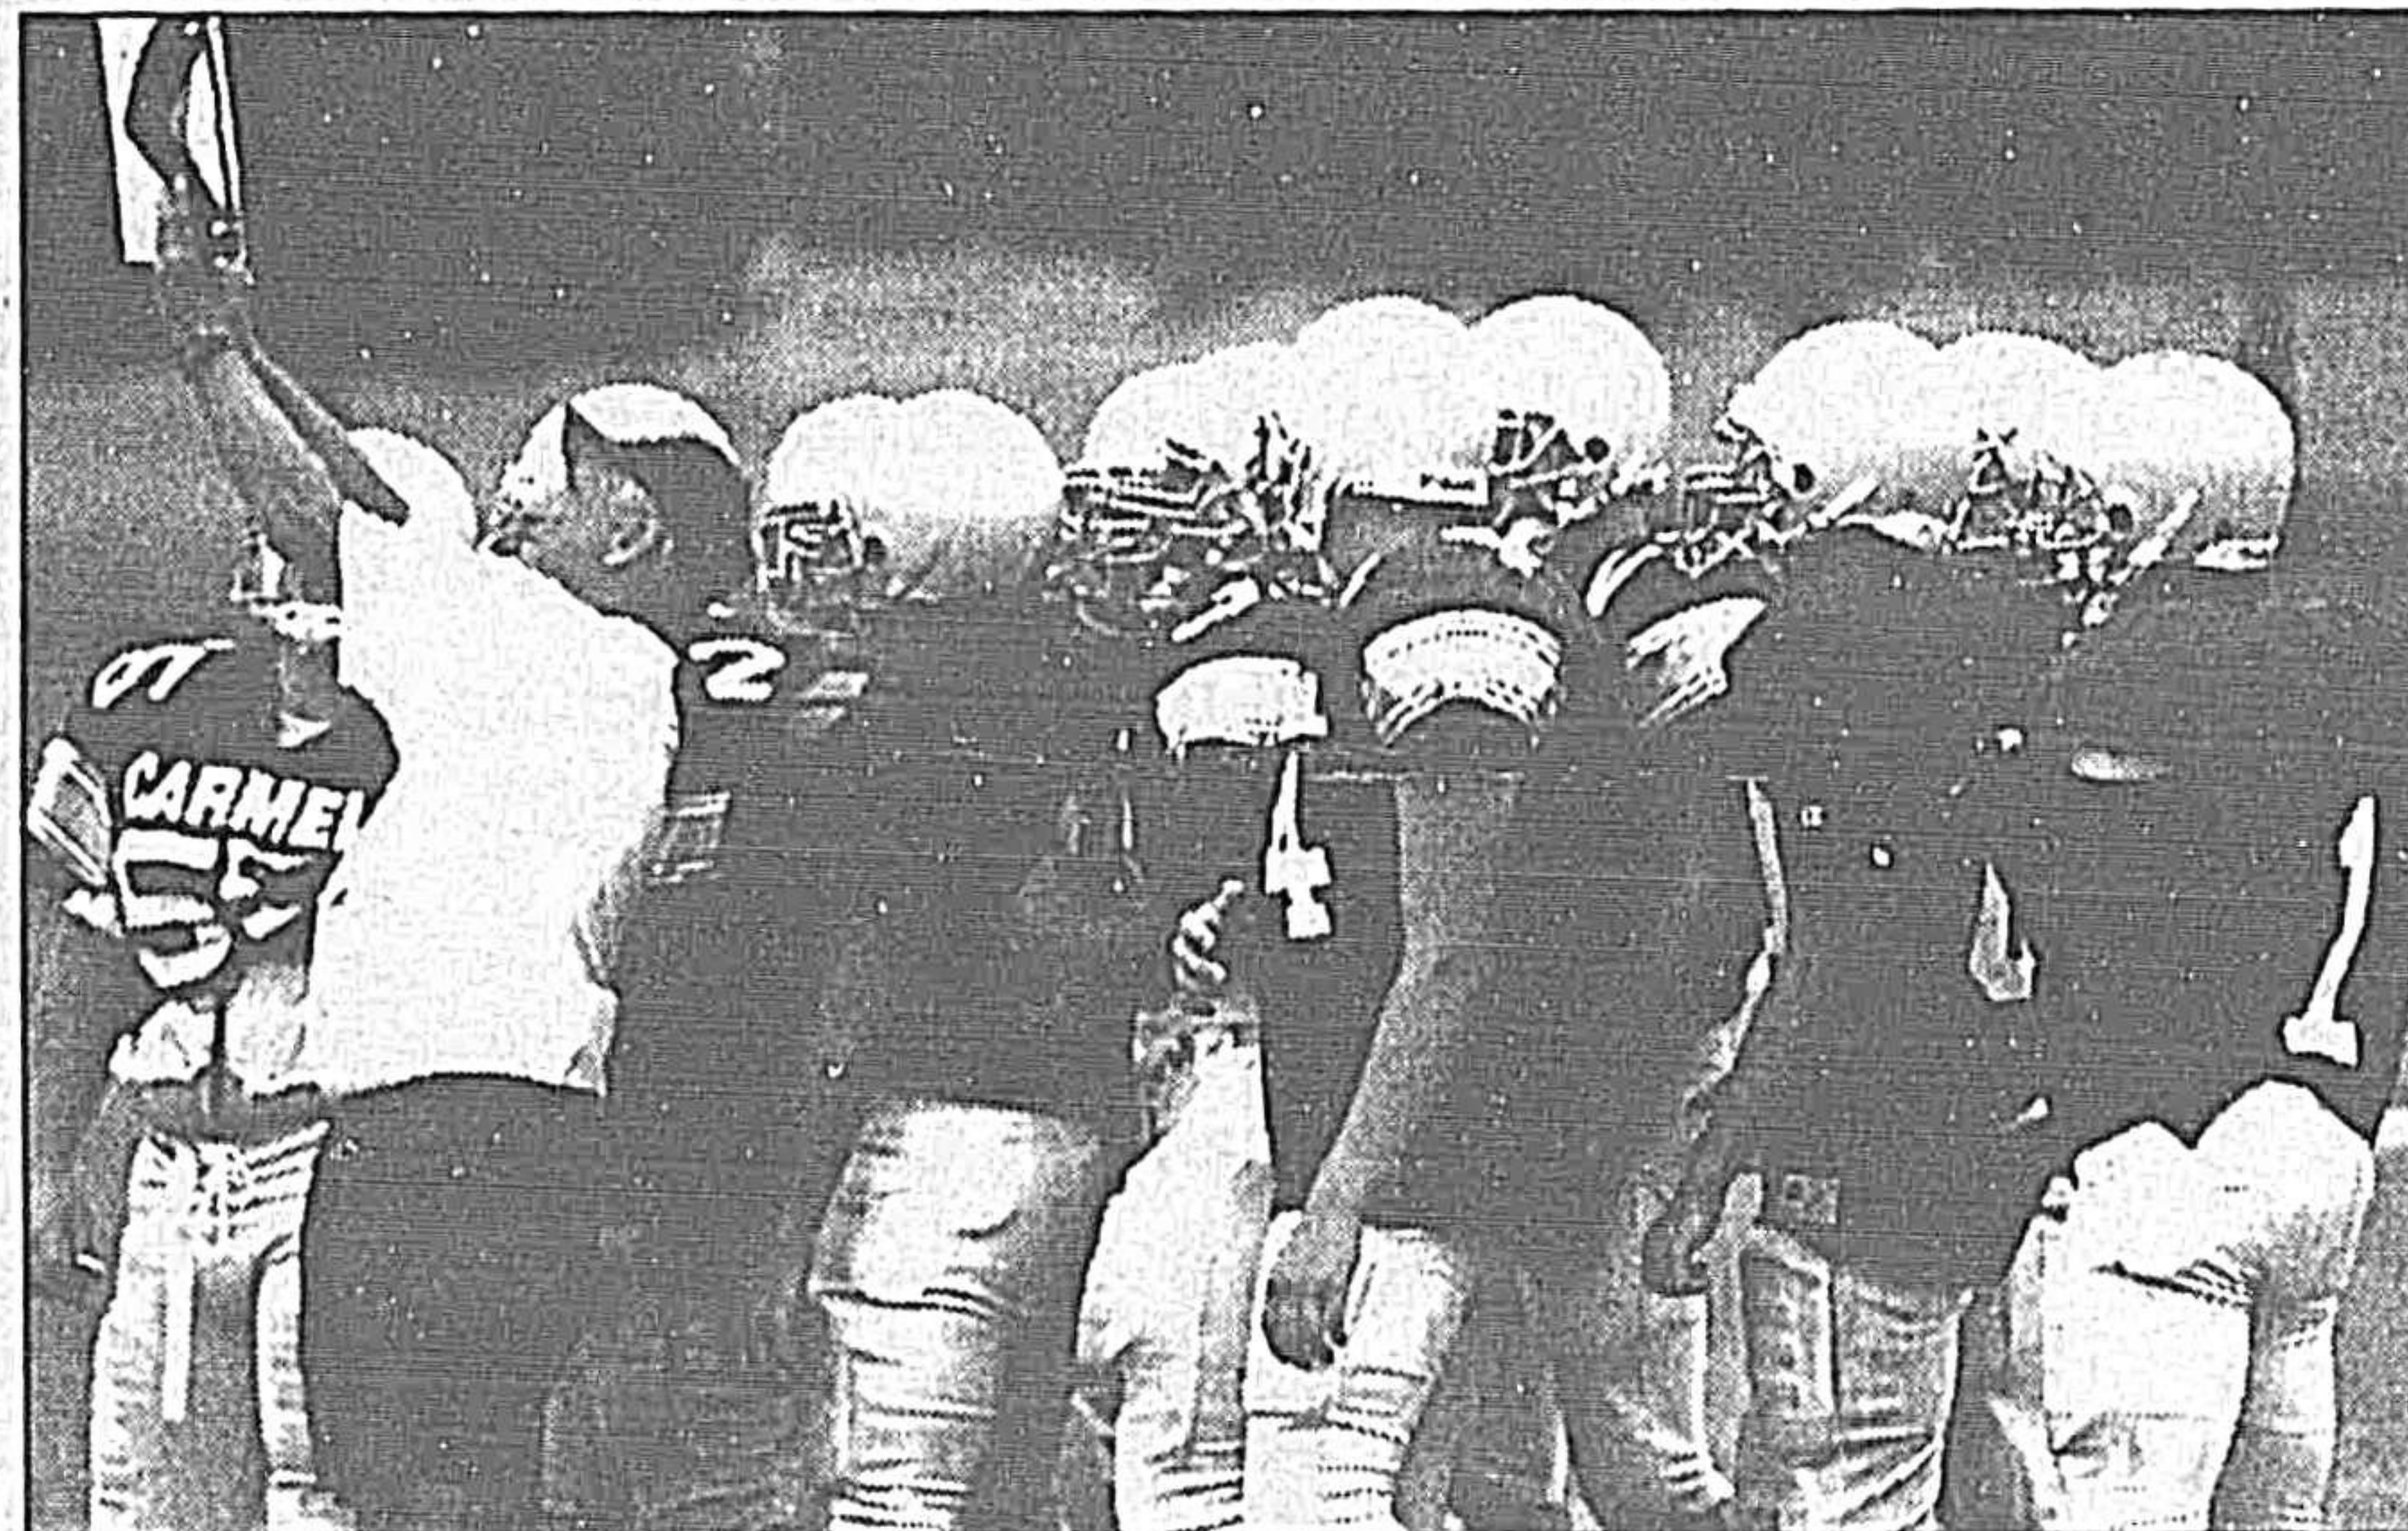

Carmel junior Jimmy Magna

"We have to work on everything. We couldn't play today, but we're getting closer," Bitto said.

Bitto explained that the coaching staff has a different job this year compared to past years. This year the staff is looking at an unusually high amount of talent.

"We have athletes at every position," Bitto said. "Our biggest challenge (as coaches) is to put the players at the right positions."

One of those athletes, senior Mark Venegoni, will be competing for the starting quarterback position. He shares the same feeling as every Carmel player and coach.

"It will be hard to improve upon last year but our goal is definitely a state championship," Venegoni said. "This year I think the players at the skills positions will be even better than last year's team."

Last year's Carmel squad lost to Richards

10-0 in the semifinals of the Class 6A state playoffs.

"We're looking to improve upon last year," junior Jimmy Magna, Venegoni's competition at quarterback, said. "We got too close last year to let it all get away."

Bitto no doubt wants that state championship but wants his players to take it one step at a time.

"Our first goal is to beat Loyola, our second goal is to win the division, our third goal is to win more than eleven games and our fourth is to win state," the coach said.

Bitto's focus seems to have trickled down to the rest of the team.

"We're just focusing on Loyola right now," senior middle linebacker Jeff Wulf said. "It's not good to take anybody lightly. We play in a really good conference."

Fall baseball at College of Lake County

For the ninth consecutive year, College of Lake County will be sponsoring a fall baseball league for any high school athlete not playing a fall sport. Six teams, or 84 players, will make up the league. Games will be played Monday through Friday starting the first week of September and running through the first week of October. All games will be played at The College of Lake County. The fee is $50 per player.

For further information, please contact CLC Head Baseball Coach and Athletic Director Gene Hanson at 847-543-2046.

Wilmot Speedway heating up

By PAUL KUYAWA
Wilmot Correspondent

Kurt Winker of Kenosha showed the competition the fast way around the Wilmot Speedway on Body Craft of Antioch Night as he took it to the competition. Beach Park's Mike Dubs took an early lead and continued to lead through lap 9 with Winker, putting on the pressure and taking the lead from Dubs on lap 10. Todd Daun of Pleasant Prairie took second from Dubs on lap 15 and set sail for Winker, who was stretching his lead out more and more each lap. Once the second generation, Winker had command as he quickly remembered the way to victory lane.

The only real problem the winner faced was lapped traffic. But even the lapper's were not a challenge for him as he sliced through the back markers with relative ease. Brian Kristan, also of Beach Park, disposed of Dubs on lap 20 to move into the third position as he and Daun began a very spirited battle for second and third. Daun prevailed with Kristan grabbing third Dubs held on to fourth followed by West Allis' Rick Kelsey.

"The way my year has been going I wasn't sure when I'd get another victory. This old JB is pretty beat up but it worked just fine for me tonight. I had a lot of help getting to victory lane and would like to thank everyone who helped," Winker said.

Winker, who started the year off running with the World of Outlaw Gumout Series had just a ton of bad luck and had to pull back and regroup. "I am getting a new car ready for the Knoxville Nationals and hope to come back out strong and run some of the Outlaw stuff," Winker said. Wildwood's Jason Hyerdall, Wildwood grabbed an early lead at the start of the IMCA Modified A-main with Larry Surletta of Round Lake in tow. Ed Devall took the lead on lap nine from his ninth-starting position.

Lee Tibbitts of Herbon and Scott Kuxhouse of Antioch were putting a lap after lap battle for the second spot. Kuxhouse got the better of Tibbitts on lap 14 and began making a move to reel in Devall. Mike Sullivan of Trevor had moved into fourth having made great progress from a 10th starting spot. Early leader Hyerdall rounded out the top-5 when a caution flag flew for debris on the speedway on lap 14.

On the restart, Devall and Kuxhouse put on a super show as they ran side by side for the last 4 laps.

Kuxhouse prevailed at the checkers over Devall, followed by Sullivan, Tibbitts, and Dan Hopkins of Beach Park.

"That one was fun, if the fans enjoyed it they should have seen it from my view," said Kuxhouse. Kuxhouse broke something on the car just as the checkers flew. "I don't know what broke, but it happened at a good time," Kuxhouse added.

Ken Netzel of Bristol (Wis.) was victorious in the 15-lap IMCA Hobby Stock Main. Kenosha's Kris Techert, North Chicago's David Jones, Lyle Bottlemey of Genoa City and Kenosha's Gary Foster followed him.

"This was my first win and I just can't believe were able to win an A-main so soon this year," Netzel said.

In a rare Sunday show at Wilmot, temperatures hovered near 100 degrees all day. But racing was just as hot, with the AMA Flat Track Motorcycles, Quad Racers and Mini Sprints taking center stage.

Jeff Harder proved that he had the hot weather set up perfected, as he was able to smoke the 16-car starting field. Buddy Luebke blasted to the point at the drop of Jim Stout's green flag and looked headed to victory. Harder, however, had different ideas. He was able to get by Luebke on lap 11 and was able to cruise to victory. Luebke drove a great race to finish second, followed by Ron Brannam, Bryan Pearl and Tom Wardlow rounding out the top-5.

The next race at the Wilmot Speedway is August 3. The 410 Sprint Cars will be in action along with the IMCA modifieds and IMCA Hobby Stocks. Antioch Schwinn will once again be giving away a brand new Schwinn Bicycle to one lucky young race fan. For up to the minute race and weather information you can reach the Wilmot Speedway at 262-862-2446 or keep up to speed on the Wilmot web site at www.wilmotspeedway.com. Times trials start at 6 p.m. with races to follow.

No lightning, plenty of Thunder

The Lindenhurst Thunder girl's 16- and-under soccer team advanced to the championship match in the Trophy Division of the 18th Annual Schwan's USA Cup, played in Blaine, Minn. It took a penalty-kick shootout for the Lightning Soccer Club of Naperville to defeat the Thunder after the match ended in a 3-3 deadlock.

To reach the finals following divisional play, the Thunder defeated the Mahtomedi (Minn.) Twisters 2-1 in the quarterfinal match and the West Side (Ohio) Stars 2-1 in the semi-finals.

The championship match featured a free-flowing first half played in the wind and rain—appropriate conditions for teams named Lightning and Thunder. Lindenhurst fell behind early but vaulted to a 3-2 halftime lead behind goals by Courtney Ksioszk, Melissa Pohlman, and Lissa Coby. Coby led Lindenhurst with nine goals scored over the team's six games.

The Lightning controlled much of the play in the second half, but Thunder goalkeeper Amanda Otten was up to the challenge, making several nice saves. She also got a little help from the crossbar on more than one occasion. The Lightning was able to break through with the tying goal midway into the half, however, on a nicely slotted pass across the mouth of the goal.

Neither team was able to score in the time remaining or in two sudden-death overtime periods, which meant the championship of the largest youth soccer tournament in the Western Hemisphere would be decided by penalty kicks. Unfortunately for the Thunder, the Lightning prevailed 3-1 in the shootout, making three of its first four shots while the Thunder was successful on only one of its first four attempts.

Despite the tough loss, the Lindenhurst girls returned home proud of their achievement in this world-renowned tournament. The USA Cup is the premier youth soccer tournament in America and the largest youth soccer tournament in the Western Hemisphere. Close to 900 teams from 36 states and 19 countries competed in the tournament, which was held at the National Sports Center. The facility is the largest outdoor soccer complex in the world with 52 fields located on one site.

"I think everyone was pleasantly surprised at how well we did. It really opened the girls eye's when they saw that they were competing with teams from all over the world. It was definitely a great experience" from all over the world. It was definitely a great experience." Nancy Buller assists Luluofs with the coaching duties.

Neal Luluofs

It wasn't all soccer, though.

"We tried to tie in some other things, like going to the Northwest corner of Wisconsin to go tubing down the Apple River," said Luluofs. "Overall, it was just a really nice week-long event."

Lindenhurst Thunder players who competed in the tournament were Lissa Coby, Leslie Collins, Lori Knupp, Courtney Ksioszk, Melissa Luluofs, Nicole Moxley, Amanda Otten, Melissa Pohlman, Megan Placko, Carly Richter, Kacie Sheridan, Jessica Stein, Stefanie Sweeney and Jeanna Wirth.

The team not only plays a summer but fall schedule as well. Practice starts in August for the fall season.

Grayslake AYSO hosting camp

Spring Grove—Keeping the world informed of the crimes against humanity during Nazi Germany was Lisa Dorman's life mission. She died telling her part of a story at a McHenry County storytelling festival. Dorman, a survivor of the Holocaust, was telling her story how she, with the help of family members, escaped Nazi Germany. A stunned audience at the Spring Grove Storytelling Festival's adult tent looked on as she collapsed. She was treated at the scene, rushed to Northern Illinois Medical Center, but the 75-year-old died at 3:08 p.m. July 28.

Despite numbers, teenage workers are out in force

By CHRISTY BLANDFORD
Staff Reporter

More teenagers are choosing to enjoy their summer without seeking employment according to the U.S. Bureau of Labor and Statistics, but many local teens and employers say this is not the case.

The governmental agency reports that only 56.9% of 16 to 19 year olds worked or even looked for a job last summer, which is the lowest percentage since 1964. With only 46% of teens working or seeking jobs as of this May, it is projected that this year will produce an all-time high number of unemployed teens.

But despite these statistics, many local business managers say they have not seen a change in the number of teenage applicants.

Jamie Blackley, manager of Blockbuster Video in Round Lake Beach said the statistics actually represent the opposite of what she's witnessed in her store.

"There are actually a lot more people applying this year," Blackley said. "A lot of them are too young, and those are the ones we have to turn away."

Melissa Sheets, a recent Grant High School graduate, is working at Blockbuster before she begins her first year at Western Illinois University. Sheets said rather than taking the summer off, she decided to work in order to alleviate some of the rising costs of higher education.

Midlane expansion plans all wet

By STEVE SKINNER
Staff Reporter

As reported last week exclusively by Lakeland Media, preliminary plans submitted to the City of Waukegan, by the owners of Midlane Country Club, fail to address concerns raised by neighbors.

Questions posed in the Midlane application ask if any part of the proposed development lies in wetlands or in a flood plain. Midlane answered "no" to both questions on its submitted application.

The preliminary plat of the proposed development specifically cites a Flood Insurance Rate Map (FIRM). Investigations by Lakeland utilized a scaled overlay of the FIRM map onto

'Wait 'til next year' is fair reaction

Even though crowds dwindled by 25,000 people this year, Lake County Fair organizers say they consider the festivities a success.

"We're very happy — we had a very successful fair," Fair Board of Directors treasurer William Obenauf said. "The numbers were down a little, but all-in-all considering the heat, I think we had a very good turnout."

This year's fair drew in a crowd of 180,080 people for its six-day run, which ended Sunday. That's over 25,000 attendees less than last year, when crowds amounted to 205,893 people.

Police search for missing teen

Gurnee—Joy D. McCray, 14, of Gurnee, left a note on the kitchen table telling her mother she was leaving. That was on July 23 and the girl has not yet been found. Joy is known to frequent the south side area of Waukegan, and attempts by police to locate the missing girl have been unsuccessful. Joy is a student at the ROE alternative school in Zion. Joy has a light brown complexion, weighs 152 pounds and is 5 feet 5 inches. The mother notified police after the girl did not return home. The mother said she believed the girl might try to go to Michigan, but did not specify the reason. Anyone with information regarding the whereabouts of the missing teen is asked to notify the Gurnee police at 847-244-8640.

Pine Tree pet store feted for innovation

Libertyville—Pine Tree Pet Super Center may be to selling pets and pet supplies what the late Bill Veeck was to promoting baseball. The family owned business, 40 years in operation, has been acknowledged by a major industry magazine for innovative promotions at the store, 1153 S. Milwaukee Ave., at the Green Tree Plaza. Pet Product News named the store "Retailer of the Year," in the Best Promotions category.

Residents make noise about horns

Mundelein—A little over three months ago village board members approved installation of an automated railroad horn system at nine crossings stretching south from Peterson Rd. to Butterfield Rd. Instead of hearing the blast of whistles crescendo from the trains, Mundelein residents now hear a horn sound 40 seconds before the train reaches the crossing. Both the duration and volume of the horns are less than the train whistles.

Village sets 5-year road plan

Antioch—Work on the five-year road repair plan is underway with work on the first five non-arterial streets to be completed within the month. Motor fuel tax (MFT) bonding will be used to pay for the road repair plan. The first year's work is estimated at just under $400,000. Shoulder work and drainage work would be included as part of the repairs made. All of the roads that are within the village limits and under the village control.

Coffee shop serves a change

Grayslake—Just two short years ago, Something's Brewing, the Grayslake coffee-house, opened a second location along Washington Street near the College of Lake County. So positive was the reception for the new location, the old location, at 36 S. Whitney St. will close its doors by the end of August.

Walls bulging at Lake County Jail

Waiting list grows for work-release program

PART 1 OF A 2-PART SERIES

By BRENDA BALIN-BEITSCHER
Staff Reporter

Lake County Jail faces a dilemma: it is mandated to receive prisoners awaiting trial, but it may not exceed its capacity. Yet, for six months this year, the jail was filled beyond its 597-inmate capacity, forcing it to turn away arrestees on their way to bond court.

During the summer months, the overcrowding is abated, but when the weather gets cold, demand for county beds rises.

"Many (of the inmates) have mental health issues," noted Chuck DeFilippo, director of corrections. He gave an example of an inmate who was released on a cold day.

"As soon as he was released, he threw an ashtray through the window, just to get back in," the director related.

Overcrowding during the winter months put a burden on local law enforcement entities to provide their own pre-bond confinement. When the jail was beyond capacity, the state ordered it to close its doors to new detainees.

The county jail must accept inmates remanded by the court. Additionally, before appearing before a judge, if an arrestee is not released on bond, he or she must be held, although if the jail is full, that responsibility is passed back to local police departments. Many local police departments do not have facilities appropriate for overnight stays. Some are designated for no more than 4-hour stays.

In order to safely hold prisoners, many with mental or substance abuse issues, some municipalities had to contract with others to hold their prisoners until bond court convened. This proved to be an expensive proposition. Additionally, small municipalities are ill equipped to deal with the problems presented by detainees with mental illnesses or addictions.

Lake County Jail, rebuilt in 1989, has proven itself a good example of what a county jail should be.

Its "pod" residential system breaks the main portion of the jail into units of 60 inmates each. A single unarmed guard patrols each pod.

Inmates are assigned to either the pod residence or maximum security based on their behavior, not their crimes.

"In the 'old' jail, which some people called 'the dungeon,' one guard was hospitalized each week," recalled DeFilippo. Since the 1989 rebuild and reorganization, there have been no attacks on officers. Other problems such as suicides and inmate-to-inmate violence have also been reduced. Staff turnover rates have gone down as well.

The motivation to be well behaved is the chance to be allowed to stay in the pod, which is far more pleasant than maximum security.

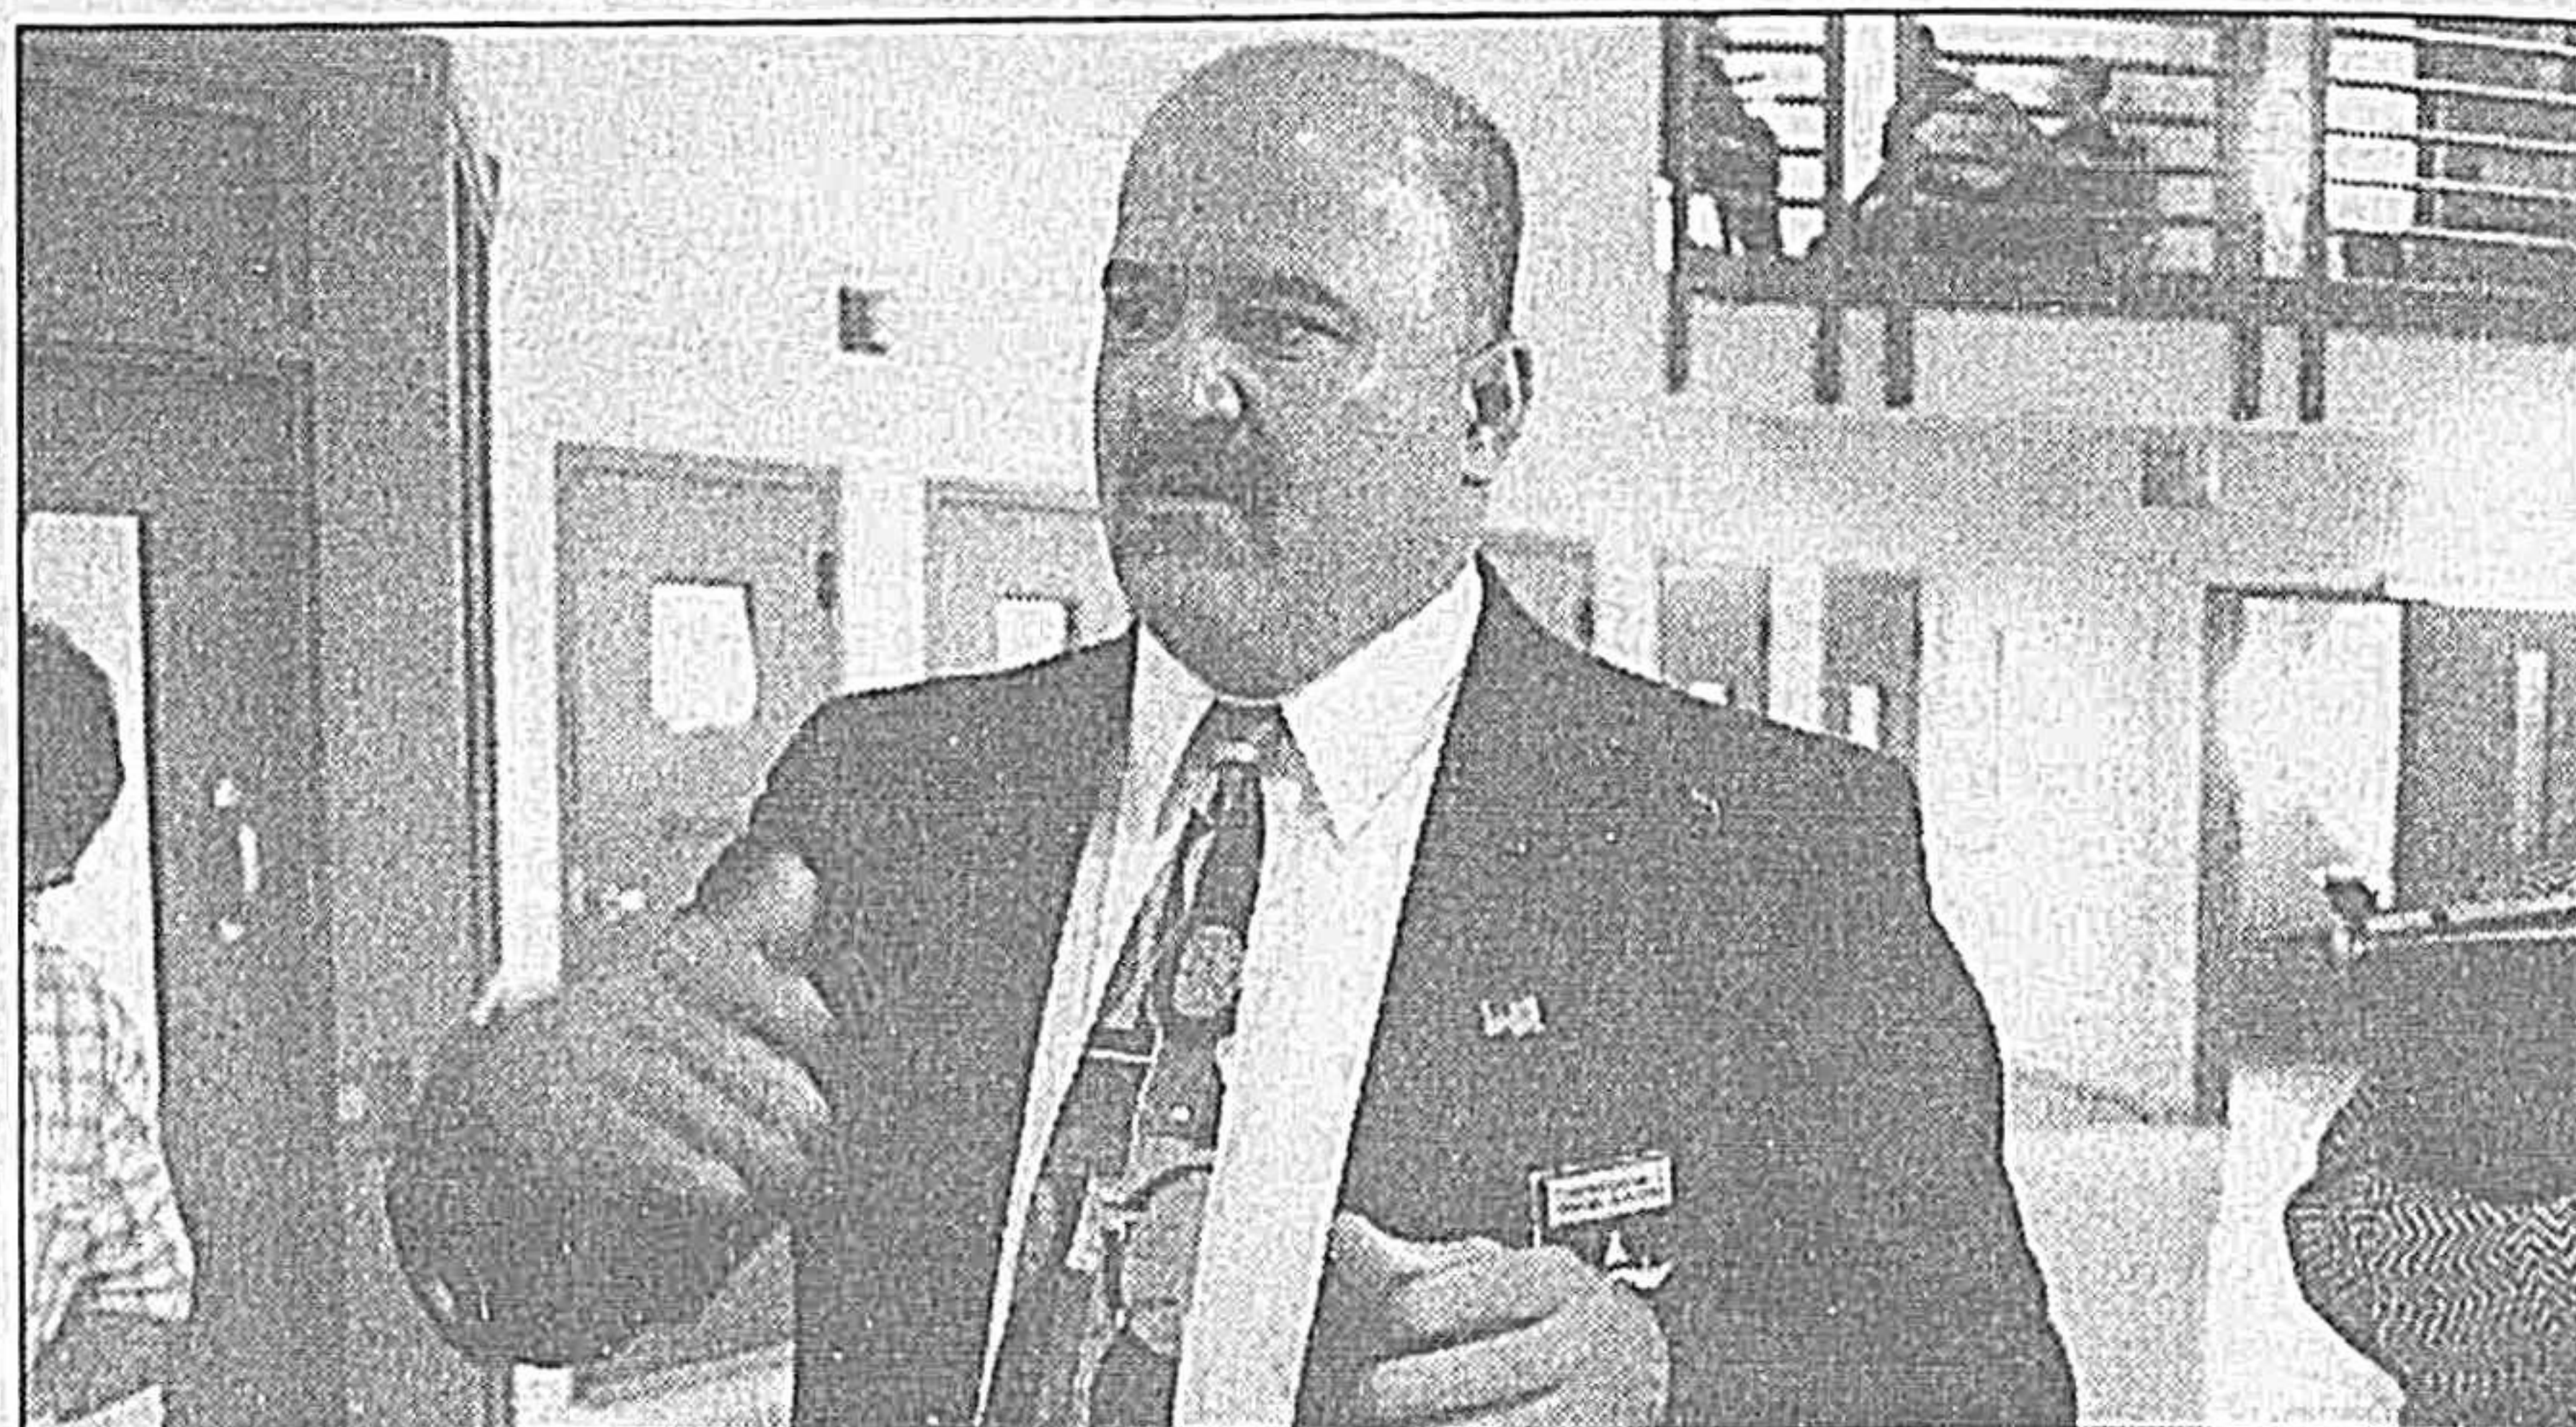

The maximum-security portion of the jail, which is generally well under its 48-inmate capacity, looks like the traditional image of a jail: common room furniture is made of metal, and bolted to the floor. Prisoners are confined to their cells for all but one hour a day, when they emerge, one-at-a-time, for exercise.

Because the main portion of the jail is so overcrowded, some new inmates, still not classified, are kept in the maximum-security section.

Those who are considered eligible are transferred to the pod residences, where there is a television in the common area, the furniture is ordinary, moveable tables and chairs, and inmates are allowed to move about the area freely. With permission, inmates have access to a library and educational materials.

"Last year, we were second only to the College of Lake County in the number of G.E.D. graduates we had," said DeFilippo, who noted this year the jail expected to graduate more people than CLC.

Most of the inmates are in single rooms, with beds, tables and porcelain sinks and toilets.

Lake County Director of Corrections Chuck DeFilippo gives a tour of the county's "pod" residential system at the Lake County Jail in Waukegan. Each "pod" holds 60 inmates and is supervised by one unarmed guard. The jail is currently seeking to add on to its work-release facility.—Photo by Sandy Bressner

The use of porcelain fixtures saved the jail a substantial amount of money. According to DeFilippo, not one fixture has been broken in 13 years.

Inmates cherish the chance to be in the controlled but more relaxed setting, and consequently, are not violent.

Although most inmates don't want to return to jail, not all have the tools to keep themselves free.

One of the programs run by Lake County is the Community Based Corrections Program.

Separate from the jail, although currently housed in the same building, this program is aimed at those who may have jobs and businesses in the community, who have families, and/or who have otherwise demonstrated they may be responsive to rehabilitation, treatment and education.

Those in the program are called "residents." During stays lasting anywhere from three weeks to three years, participants in what is commonly called "work-release" sleep in cubicles without doors. Although they punch a clock as they enter and leave, they are allowed privileges denied jail inmates.

The program keeps people out of jail. It keeps them productive and keeps their families intact. It has an 80 percent success rate (which translates to 4-out-of-5 participants who do not return to the corrections system).

The problem is there is a waiting list of 130 candidates. They can expect to wait as long as 3-6 months to get into the program. During that time, they are still in the community, but without the support services that can make a difference in their futures, and that can possibly prevent them from becoming a permanent part of the corrections system.

The county is exploring ways to correct this situation, short of building entirely new facilities. Next week: a proposal to solve two problems with one stroke.

the proposed plat, showing that three of four proposed apartment buildings lie within the flood plain.

According to Tom Rosenquist, one of Midlane's owners, there are some discrepancies on elevation levels of a flood plain. "When drawings are done, sometimes mistakes are made," said Rosenquist.

He also said that "before permits can be issued, we would have the option of requesting what is known as 'Letter of Map Revisions' (LOMAR). In such cases, an engineer, a surveyor and a representative from the army corps of engineers would have to come out and shoot the elevations for verification of the flood plain."

Waukegan is waiting for revised plans from Midlane in preparation for a meeting scheduled on the matter for Tuesday, August 13.

"I would hope the apartments are not a part of the revised proposal," said Russ Tomlin, Waukegan's Building and Zoning director. In preparation for the upcoming meeting, not only is Midlane supposed to provide Waukegan with revised drawings, but they are also supposed to notify neighbors and hold a meeting prior to August 13.

As of the printing of this article, this has yet to be done by Midlane.

Midlane's preliminary proposal asks for 56 single-family homes, 193 two-story townhomes and 160 apartments spread among four buildings, on a total of 62 acres. "The density of this project is pretty high for the area," said Tomlin, adding that residents have voiced concerns over traffic congestion, school crowding and improvements that may be necessary to the infrastructure. He also said an issue is who will pay for those improvements.

"We are waiting for the new proposal from Midlane, so we know what the density is going to be," he said. "We do not want to waste time and money assessing the demand on the current infrastructure, without knowing how many additional residents those systems may need to serve.

"If a new water main needs to be brought in or upgrades to the pumping station are required, existing residents should not be required to pay for improvements necessary for a new development," said Tomlin.

Tomlin went on to say the city is aware of all of the issues and concerns of this project and he wanted to assure the neighbors that the city engineer would review details of the project with a fine tooth comb before any permits are granted.

The flood plain raises some problems for the proposed development. "You have to do compensatory storage," said Rosenquist. He was referring to removing land that absorbs water, and replacing it with construction that sheds water. On the Midlane application, they are planning retention ponds for storm water runoff. If the elevations of the FIRM map are verified, the only place for those retention ponds lies at the southern end of the development where the flood plain is located. "You cannot put a retention pond in a flood plain," said Tom Donohue, one of the nearby residents.

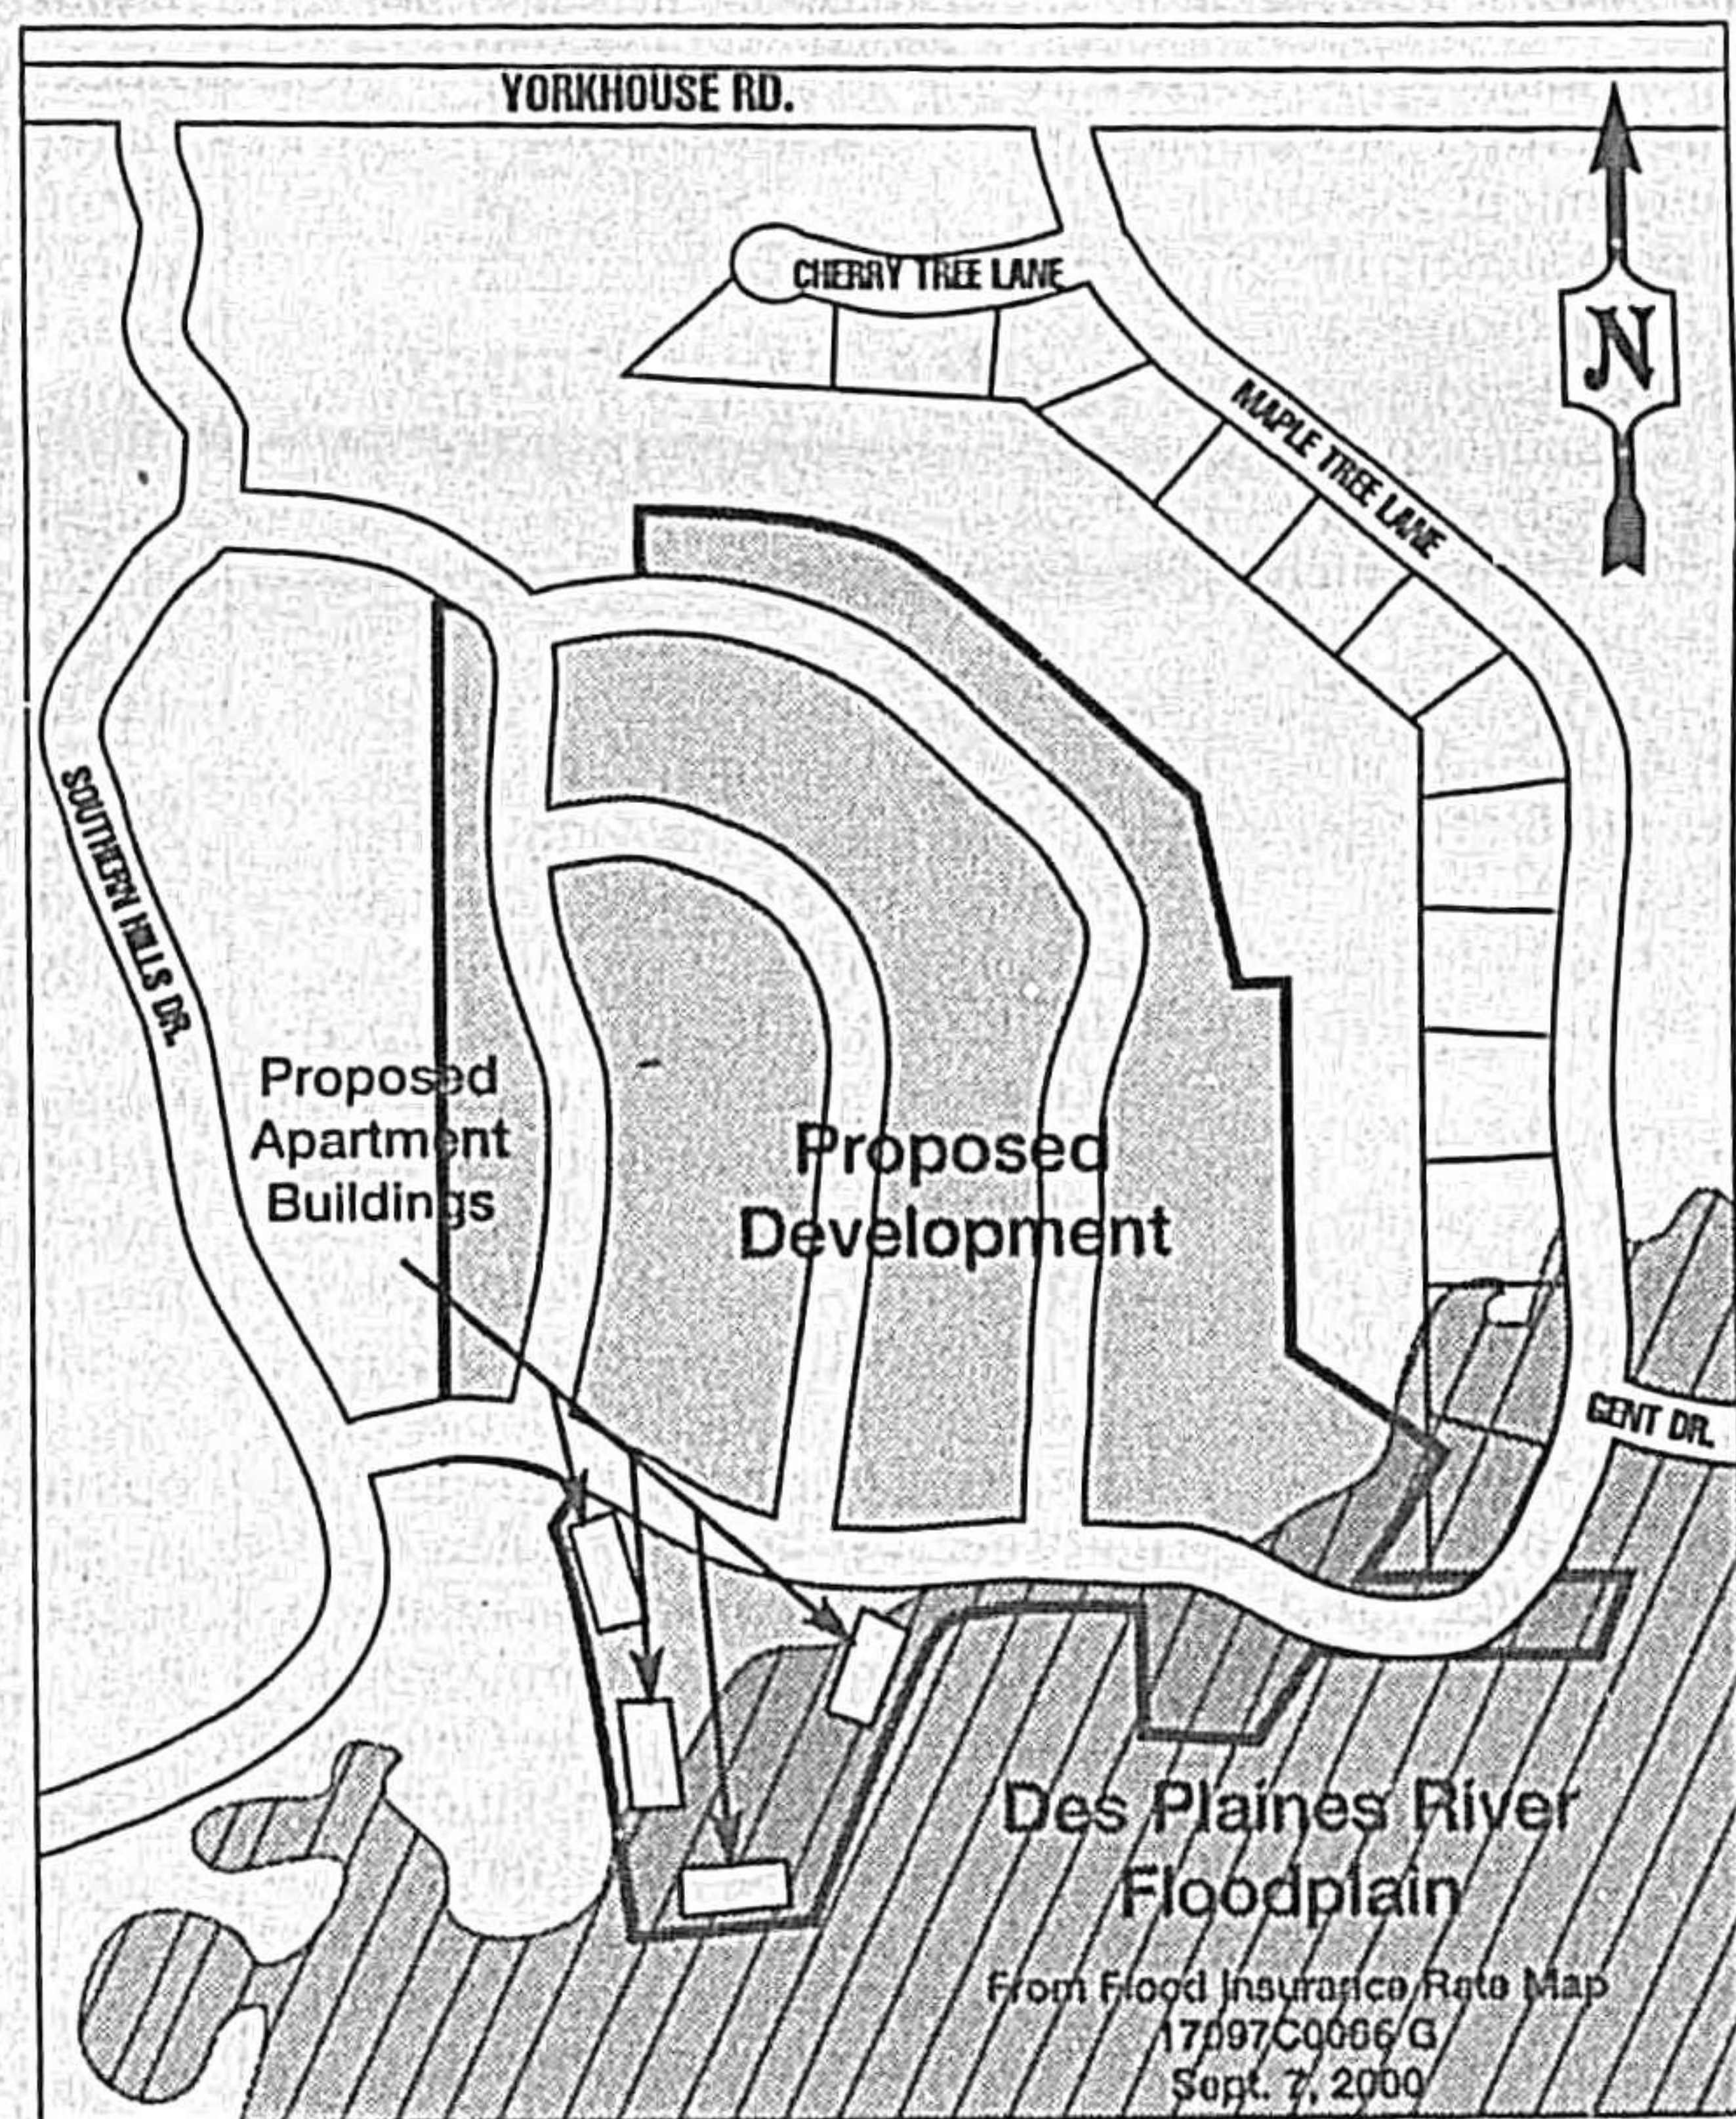

Another land-use problem residents are unfamiliar with has to do with the Park District's requirement of making land available for a park on the site.

According to a formula used to calculate the amount of acreage required for a park, based on proposed population density, Midlane would be required to set aside at least 12 acres for a park.

The park district also allows cash in lieu of land, which is based on the fair market value of one acre, currently about $80,000.

Tomlin stressed that "property owners still have a right to develop their property. To what degree this property will be developed will be interesting to see."

Proposed Midlane Links development, superimposed to scale on the Flood Insurance Rate Map (FIRM) produced by FEMA. The FIRM map shows the flood plain for the Des Plaines River as it affects the proposed development.

Ex-queen rooted in farming

By DENYS BUCKSTEN
Staff Reporter

The most striking thing about Jody May is her enthusiasm for all things agricultural.

May, 26, just completed her fourth year as Superintendent of Agricultural Education at the Lake County Fair, which ended July 29, after six days at the fairgrounds in Grayslake.

May, the former Jody Stewart, represented the City of Zion at the county fair queen pageant in 1996, and was crowned Lake County Fair Queen.

The tall, slender and athletic former volleyball player is married to Brett May, and teaches at Oak Crest Elementary School in Beach Park.

CORRECTION

To correct an error in a story that appeared in last week's Lake County section about Vista Health, St. Therese Hospital in Waukegan is slated to be closed by 2005 not Victory Hospital.

"I was born in South Dakota and we lived in a rural area," she said. "The family moved here when I was 10 years old."

And part of what the Stewart family brought with them was a love of farming and the people who knew and loved the land. Once living in Zion, the Lake County Fair became an annual, must-do event for the Stewarts.

"We are a farm family," said May, with a steady gaze and bright smile.

"I think the fair is a great thing, a way to get the family to come out and get together and it's also a learning experience, a way to learn about the past, and the future, in Lake County and in Illinois."

May said that teaching children about agricultural and America's roots in farming is a reward in itself. "The appreciation I see in a child's face lighting up as they hear a cow 'moo,' or a pig 'oink,' that they had only heard in books or on TV, is wonderful. It's all in their faces."

Ironically, May departs a bit from her agricultural roots when discussing her favorite fair event: demolition derby.

"I did that here at the fair in 1997. Brett was my passenger."

A school of thought: Name shouldn't be sold

Last week, Vernon Hills-based Rust-Oleum gave $100,000 to Vernon Hills High School so it could finish building a new football field. In return, the school agreed to name the stadium: Rust-Oleum Field.

Whether it was their intention to buy naming rights or just donate money to a school is beside the point. Rust-Oleum didn't say no.

And see, it's already working. They've already been mentioned three times in this editorial. Tying its name to the field gives it free advertising every time a sports story is written, graduation flyers are printed up or as you say where you're going on Friday night. "I'm going to watch the Cougars over at Rust-Oleum Field."

That has about as nice a ring to it as other corporate-sponsored professional stadiums across the country, which just roll off the tongue: Edward Jones Dome (St. Louis Rams) Gaylord Entertainment Center (Nashville Predators) Minute Maid Park (Houston Astros) National Car Rental Center (Florida Panthers)

Network Associates Coliseum (Oakland A's)
PENGROWTH SADDLEDOME (Calgary Flames)
TDC Waterhouse Center (Orlando Magic)

While it may work for big business to slap its name on every blank piece of space, it sends messages that even our schools can be bought. Don't we pay enough in taxes to our schools already?

You see the local pizza joint or gas station or flower shop sponsoring Little League teams who in turn wear their names emblazoned on their jerseys.

That's fine, because many of the teams are working off of a shoe-string budget to begin with. "Joe's Plumbing" picking up the tab for uniforms might mean the difference in whether there is a team at all.

Schools are now "big business" too. They have multi-million dollar budgets and make no bones about asking us for more if they think they need it.

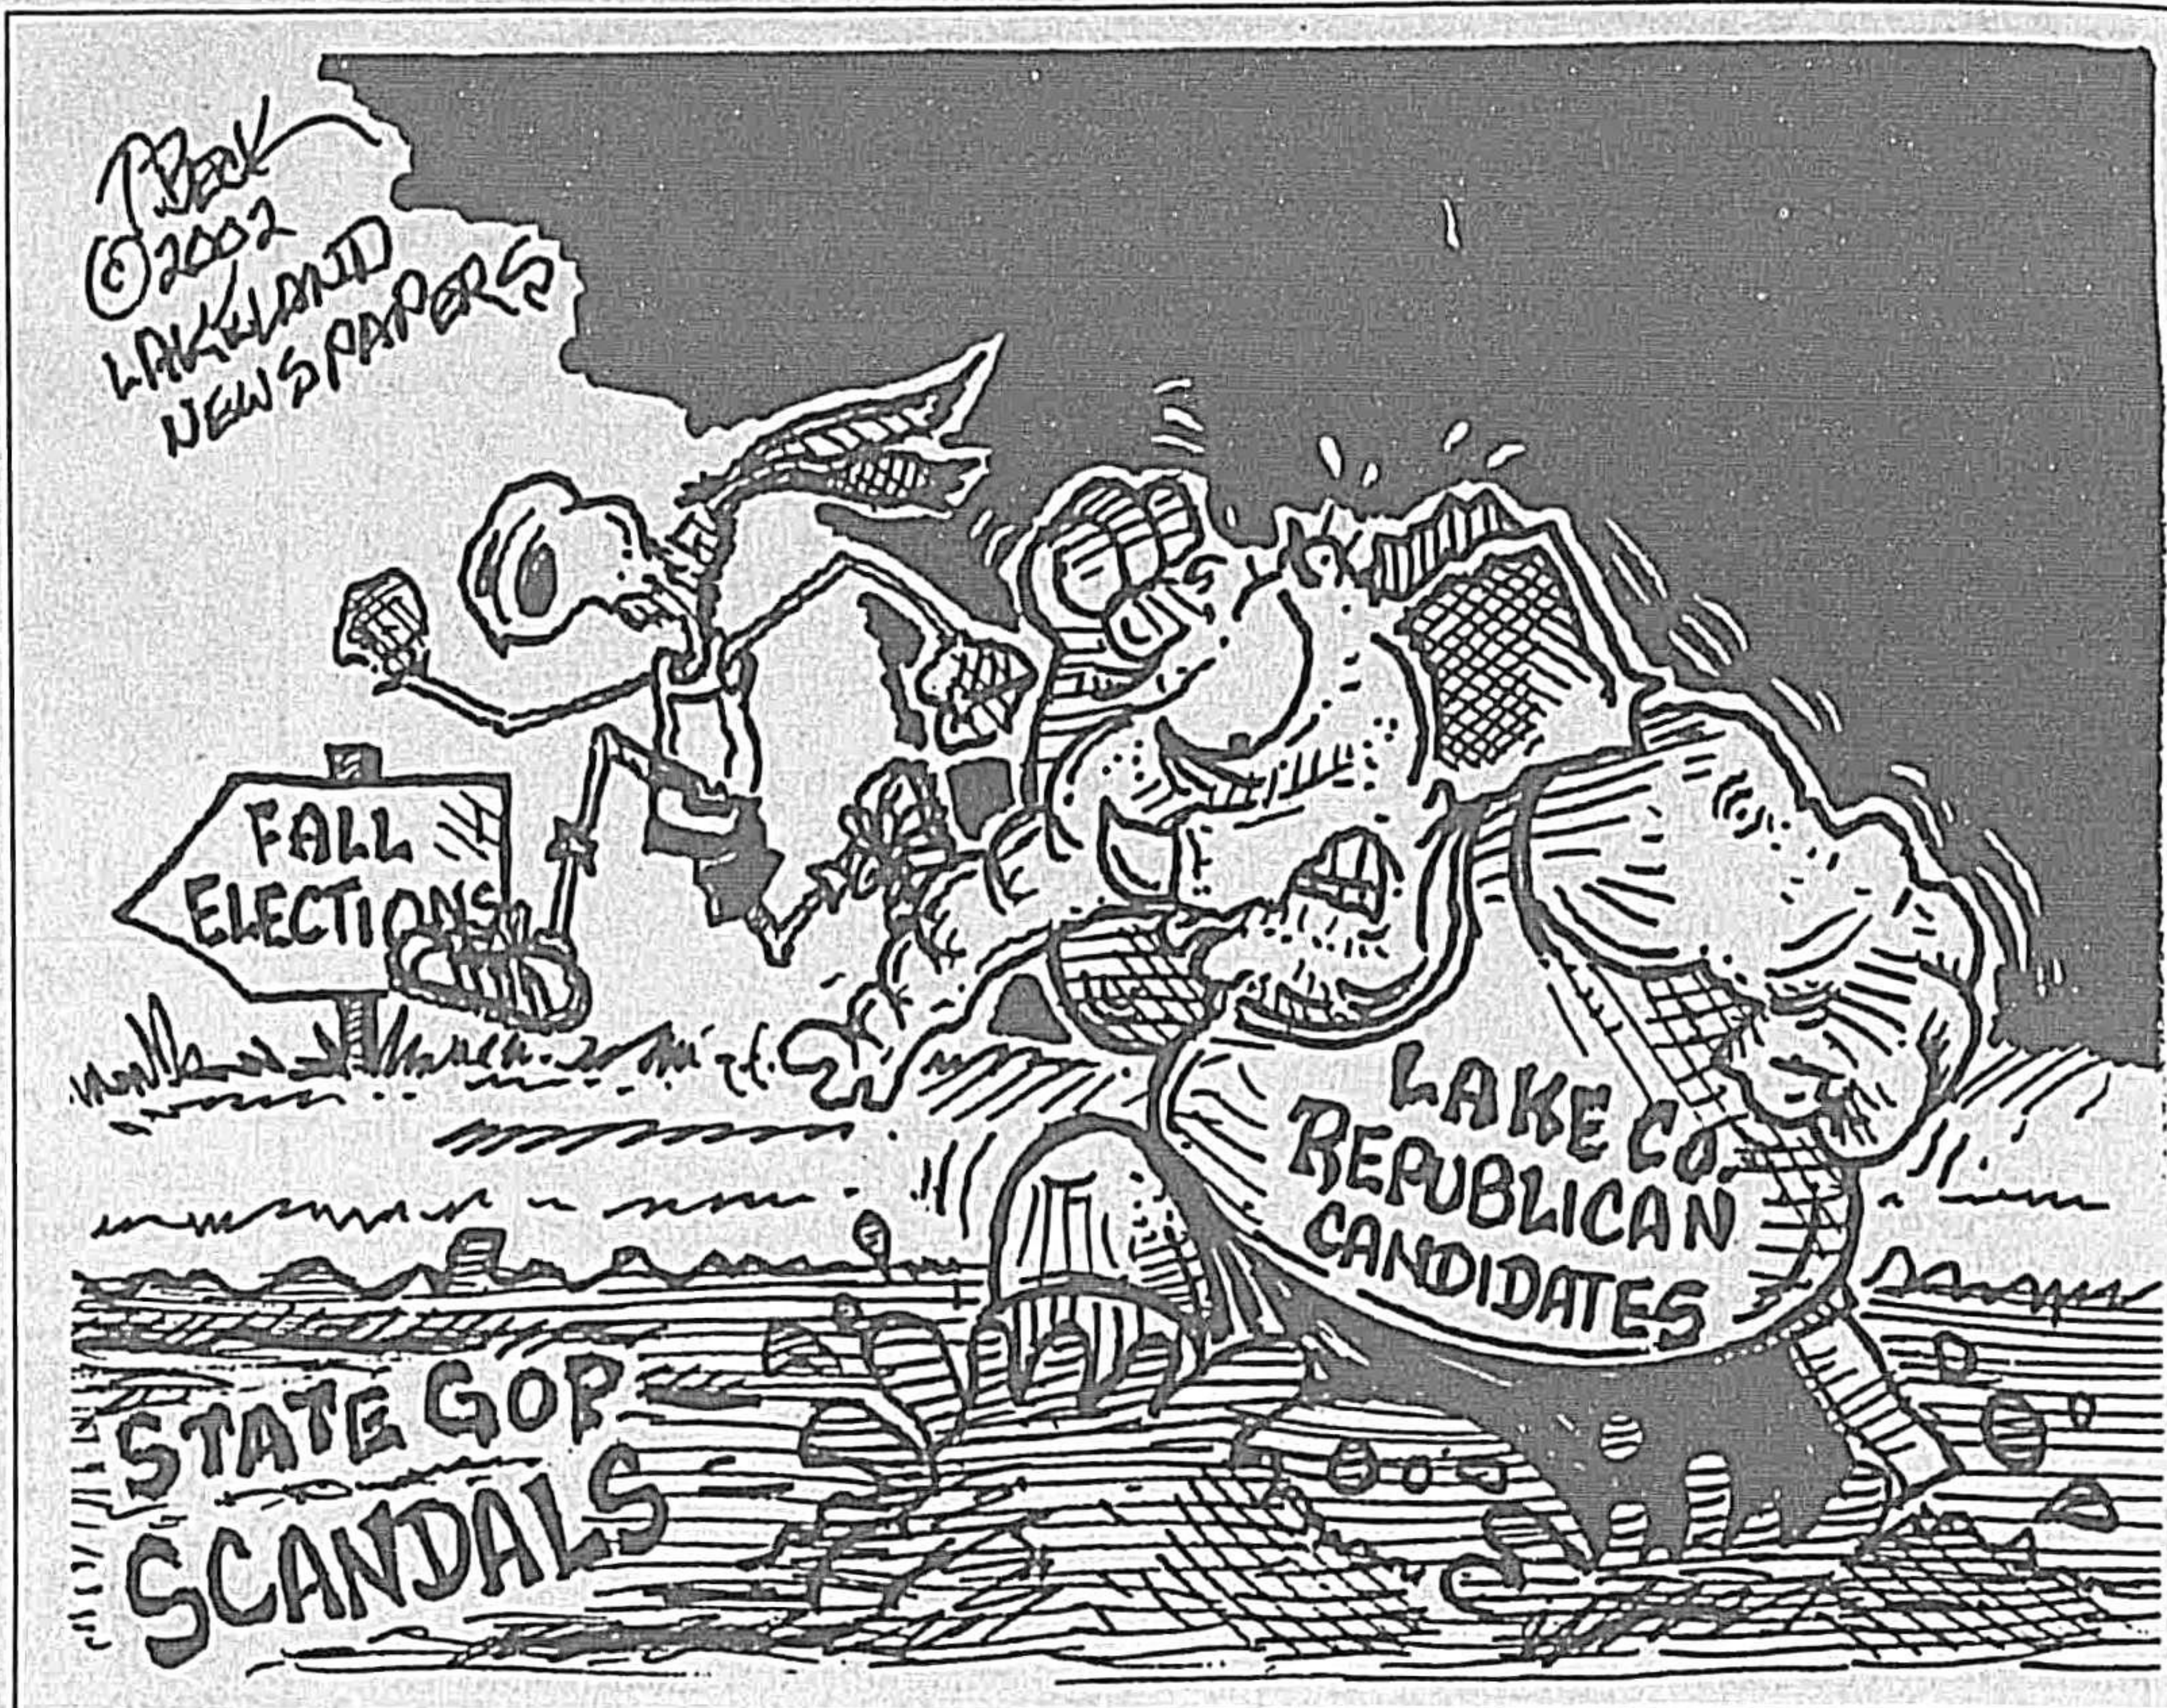

But corporate sponsorship of a public institution?

When asked whether or not it would open the door to sponsorship of its gymnasium or other facilities, Vernon Hills athletic director Al Janulis said last week, "We're committed to them. We're Rust-Oleum people. We wouldn't prostitute ourselves like that, we wouldn't sell out like that."

Looks like they've already started. After all, there's no such thing as being "a little pregnant."

If corporate sponsorship of high school athletics went a step even further and bought naming rights of area teams, here's a list of local sponsorships we hope we don't see:

- Antioch Landfillers (Waste Management)
- Carmel Corns (Temple Smith Farms)

VIEWPOINT

Facts puncture would-be scandals

Attempts to create a scandal in the sheriff's office have run out of gas in the face of facts.

Partisan Democrats took Sheriff Gary Del Re to task for stenciling his name on department transport vehicles for "campaign advertising." Turned out that only four of seven transport vehicles have stencils at the cost of $28.50 per vehicle or a total cost of $114. Stenciling the transport vehicles is standard operating procedure for sheriff's departments in the collar counties to identify vehicles hauling prisoners.

A would-be scandal where Del Re was accused of shaking down a towing operator was deflated when a federal judge dismissed major portions of a suit brought by a disgruntled towing company as "frivolous."

Letter writers in Democratic ranks pounced on the two revelations as evidence that Del Re is not qualified for reelection. The only complaint about the sheriff that has stuck was his less than enthusiastic response to the new salary schedule for officials that provided him a two percent raise. Democrats tagged Del Re as a whiner.

The sheriff probably wishes now that he had not said anything.

Service remembered

That's the way it always is. Political leaders leave office and then they're forgotten except by family and their closest friends. So it was with Larry Leonard and Atty. William "Bill" Hartnett, two former Democratic leaders who died within days of each other in July. Larry was a radio newsmen and talk show host when tapped to fill out the unexpired term of State Sen. Bill Morris who resigned to run for mayor of Waukegan. Larry liked politics and was good at it, especially the policy side. Only he had the misfortune to run for outright election against the redoubtable Adeline Geo-Karis, who had experience as a state representative and was ready to join the senate. He did public relations as a party aide and then worked as a real estate broker. Former Sen. Leonard battled cancer for 10 years. Republicans always wished Bill Hartnett was in their party because he was so talented and likeable. He served as Lake County Democratic chairman and did a one-term stint in the General Assembly 1964-66 when Illinois legislative candidates ran at large because of a redistricting snafu. It was a fluke election. Hartnett, with a keen sense of humor, regarded his election as an accident. There is a small park fronting on Washington St., Highland Lake, named in his memory.

Fun cruise

Grayslake business executive Bob Casey is a firm believer in the concept of having fun yourself while doing good for others. That's why he serves as captain one night a year aboard Lake Geneva's "Lady of the Lake" for the annual Hastings Lake YMCA Send a Kid to Camp Cruise. This year's event will be Saturday, Sept. 21. Cruise fans enjoy cocktails aboard and then dock for a dinner at Lake Geneva Country Club where a live and silent auction raise funds to support next year's program at the Lake Villa camp. Casey has raised thousands of dollars for sending youngsters to summer camp who might not otherwise be able to go. He'll supply information about cruise details by callings 847-546-4029.

Silent candidate

Take it from John Matijevich, a highly respected Democratic leader during his days in the Illinois General Assembly and now the writer of a popular column in Lakeland Media, Pat Quinn will be seen and not heard from in the fall election campaign. Lt. Gov. aspirant Quinn, who usually has an opinion about every issue in the public arena, is letting Democratic gubernatorial candidate Rod Blah Blah do all the talking.

Welcome news

Just after the hottest day of the year, comforting news arrived from the Snowseekers Ski Club who are signing up members for western trips to Breckenridge, CO; Tahoe, CA, and Park City, UT, beside weekend treks in the midwest. President Cindi Wunder, 847-367-0919, can supply information for a membership. Meeting at First Presbyterian Church, Libertyville, the club welcomes families, couples and singles for both downhill skiing and snowboarding. Snowseekers has been meeting since 1964.

Readers of this column know that I have often written about the power of the public when they raise their voices on issues that may affect the quality of their lives.

In that regard, I want to commend those who have been in the forefront against the way developments around Wooster Lake may degrade the water quality of that beautiful lake and the natural drainage that leads to it.

Naomi Mitchell is a retired school teacher and has lived at Wooster Lake for 44 years. She has been a self-appointed watchdog on keeping contamination of Wooster

Lake to a minimum and who knows how bad it would be if it weren't for her.

She told how she remembers the time when the lake was rated the fourth purest in all of Illinois and it hasn't been the natural elements that led to the contamination. She also said that we must stand firm against these developers who are destroying our environments, and I totally agree with her.

Along with Naomi, Ken Calvert, who is president of the Wooster

Wooster Lake-Fight to save it

SEEING IT THROUGH
John S. Matijevich

Lake Conservation and Control Association, and his wife Faith, have been aggressive in their efforts against the Cambridge at Holiday Park Development for changing the natural drainage that leads to Wooster Lake.

They said that Cambridge removed a 30 foot earthen piece between Bruce Lake and the channel that leads directly east into Wooster Lake.

The developer installed a silt fence along the channel, which it widened. Even a small rain will "blow out" the silt fence and allow the contaminated water to quickly flow into Wooster Lake. In the years "B.C." (Before Cambridge), the waters flowed out of Bruce Lake toward wetlands getting cleaned and the natural flow cleaned the waters as it flowed toward the Fish Lake Drain to Wooster Lake.

Calvert and Mitchell said that Cambridge is responsible for diverting the natural flow. They have taken water samples that have documented major contamination of Wooster Lake.

During their "crusade," they have received some help from Sen. William Peterson and his aide, Jan Zibus; the Illinois Dept. of Natural Resources; Lake County's Dept. of Environmental Health and the Soil

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Parker aims to derail Demo 'slam dunk'

State Sen. Kathleen "Kathy" Parker, (R-Northfield), stripped of two-thirds of her 29th Senatorial District in the Democratic controlled redistricting process, has a well organized campaign to turn back the challenge of State Rep. Susan Garrett (D-Lake Forest).

Parker has vowed to test Garrett's personal wealth to the limit in election spending. Parker's supporters insist the energetic North Shore area state senator will outwork Garrett on the campaign trail and expose her legislative record as "limited and lacking substance."

Once considered a Democratic slam dunk, the clash now is being reassessed by leaders in both parties for different reasons. One GOP leader asserted that Garrett won't be allowed to "posture herself as a victim." Republican strategists also point out that Parker's record included the defeat of the popular and beloved late Grace Mary Stern, a Democratic icon. Both Garrett and Parker are expected to spend freely.

Jobs advocate

Susan Tenzi, who won the Republican nomination for state representative in a new Waukegan district, is banking on her record for economic revitalization and advocating job creation to defeat Democratic nominee Eddie Washington. Tenzi, a small business owner, has been a tireless worker for bringing new business into Waukegan and North Chicago.

Ryan on the way

Illinois Atty. Gen. Jim Ryan is bringing his campaign caravan to Libertyville Sunday, Aug. 25 for the annual Lake County

Ryan:
Places picnic on "must attend" list for August.

Stolman:
Ponders reasons for improved meeting attendance.

Republican picnic. In recent years, both parties have tended to bypass Lake County, but Ryan's staff knows the importance of carrying Lake County with oversize numbers, something high profile GOP candidates have had trouble doing lately. The Republican shindig will be held at Independence Grove Forest Preserve.

Getting regular

There's been a noticeable improvement in the attendance record of County Board Rep. David Stolman (R-Buffalo Grove). Two reasons: It's an election year; more-so, Stolman could be getting ready for his bi-annual charge for the board's chairmanship which will be decided after the November general election.

Lots of media

Fox River Valley Gardens Mayor Jack Motley is amazed at all the media attention generated by suggestion of a village name change. He's not sure whether the spotlight is beneficial or not. The proposed Port Barrington fits for its waterfront location on the Fox River and the fact that the village has had a Barrington postal address for a long time even though its nearest neighbors are Wauconda and Island Lake.

Getting fleeced?

State Sen. Terry Link (D-Vernon Hills) says Illinois Toll Highway Authority officials must have missed basic arithmetic in their schooling. He has called attention to their issuance to TransCore of a three-year $38 million contract designed to recover $21 million in missed tolls.

Doesn't add up, but the tollway thinks recovery efforts will trigger fine income to make up the difference. Link insists toll payers are getting fleeced. Maybe scofflaw motorists think turnabout is fair play.

Going face-to-face

Republican Jim Durkin, running for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Dick Durbin, surprised Lake County Fair visitors with his friendly, low-key manner when he stopped on the midway to introduce himself and ask for support. Durkin displayed his knack for one-on-one campaigning that knocked off two primary opponents.

Heading for China

At her own expense, Lt. Gov. Corinne Wood will be part of a state legislative junket to China. She will be accompanied by daughter, Ashley. The Illinois contingent will be traveling Aug. 3-11. Wood was at the Lake County Fair July 27 handing out gun lock devices as part of a gun safety initiative.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Qualified candidate

Chuck Fagan, the Democratic sheriff candidate is a 28-year veteran of the Sheriff's Department. He worked his way through each department and through the ranks. A graduate from the FBI National Academy in Quantico, Chuck also was an original member of the Sheriff's SWAT Team. He was a Commander of the Lake County Major Crime Task Force, a speaker at the Governor's Capital Punishment Commission and was personally responsible for the closing of a number of high profile homicides. You don't think Chuck is qualified, ask Sheriff Del Re, he called him "top quality."

Vote on Route 53

While the endless bickering over transportation improvement projects in Lake County goes on and on, we the public have to put up with worse and worse traffic. I really hope that all candidates for the November election will make this a red-hot campaign issue, and why not put the Route 53 issue to a vote? Let's see how many voters are sick and tired of sitting in traffic.

Desperate Democrats

Democrats have developed an interesting tactic in supporting Sheriff Del Re's opponent - a campaign of wild charges that reek of desperation. The heart of their attack against the sheriff is a frivolous civil lawsuit filed against the sheriff by a disgruntled tow truck operator. The Democrats are misrepresenting this civil lawsuit to be a criminal prosecution by Federal law enforcement.

Not even close.

This lawsuit is frivolous. A federal judge has already dismissed most of the suit before it could get to trial. Further, the Judge has told the attorneys for the tow truck driver that they would have a difficult time proving the remaining portion of the lawsuit at trial.

Barbaric vote

It breaks my heart to hear that my Congressman Mark Kirk (R-IL 10) and Rod Blagojevich (D-IL 5) both voted against the Partial-Birth Abortion Bill.

What type of person would actually be in favor of such barbarism which is never medically indicated? Five other Democrats in our state also voted like Kirk and Blagojevich. It is no wonder the United States is a target for terrorism. When elected officials cannot stand up for the most vulnerable tiny human beings in the womb, what do we expect?

If you care enough to know how your congressman voted, call them today. I tried to call my congressman after office hours and it was not possible to leave a message or send him a fax because his fax was not public. In this age of instant e-mail and fax, it seems the congressman does not want to hear from his constituents in a timely fashion.

3¢ more a bargain

The post office isn't perfect. But it works. I know that if I put a letter in the mail, it will get where I want it to go. I don't have to make a lot of choices or decisions. I don't need to consider where to put the letter I'm sending or the cost of sending it or which system I could use to send it. I simply write the address on the envelope, stamp it and mail it. I like that.

We live in a time of shifts and changes; a time where the cry for letting free enterprise rule is heard on issues that don't benefit from it. Have we learned nothing from the California blackouts? Have we not suffered enough from the unbelievable confusion of purchasing airline tickets since deregulation of that system? Speaking of shifts, hasn't the absurd complexity of making phone calls, choosing companies, and dialing area codes to reach our neighbors brought home a shift in our thinking?

Leave the post office alone. Let it do what it does. Three cents more per letter is nothing compared to the aggravation ahead if this system does collapse.

Cops and docs, two tough jobs

Bob Hope says you know you're getting old when you bend over to tie your shoes and look for something else to do as long as you're down there.

You also know you're getting old when your back goes out more than you do.

And you further know you're getting old when your friendly policemen and your trusted doctors are young enough to be your kids.

I have been doing a lot of doctoring lately and have had so many needles poked into me I feel like a pincushion.

Although I'd rather meet and get to know my doctors on the golf course, my recent, reluctant tour of their work places showed me that the current cadre of medical professionals, ranging from my family doctors to my gastroenterologist, is first-rate.

Cops and docs. Those are a couple of jobs I couldn't do, careers that call for great compassion and a velvet touch, dealing with people when they are in their most dire straits. As the circus owner said when the human cannonball died, "It's hard to find a man of that caliber."

Imagine going to work every day with the goals of saving lives, relieving suffering and maintaining the dignity of sick people.

It has been said medicine is the only profession that labors incessantly to destroy the reason for its existence.

Hippocrates, the ancient Greek physician recognized as the father of medicine, said way back B.C., "Wherever the art of medicine is loved, there also is love of humanity."

Becoming a doctor requires many years of challenging study in classrooms, in laboratories, and with patients. Thus, it is one of our most respected professions.

We don't have demeaning doctor jokes the way we have lawyer jokes and jabs at other jobs. I did, however, find some light-touch lines about the medical profession.

The prolific author Isaac Asimov said, "If the doctor told me I had only six minutes to live, I'd type a little faster."

Humorist Erma Bombeck advised, "Never go to a doctor whose office plants have died."

Another quipster, Ronnie Shakes, says, "My doctor gave me two weeks to live. I hope they're in August."

Here's an old joke baseball character Tommy Lasorda likes to tell:

One patient visited his doctor and got a clean bill of health. On his way out of the doctor's office he dropped dead. When the doctor heard what happened, he said, "Turn him around so it will look like he was on his way in here!"

and Water District. But, the two agencies that could have helped the most have left them "wanting." The agency that should have really resolved this matter from the beginning is the county's Stormwater Management Commission. Also, because it has jurisdiction of the Wooster Lake shoreline, the U. S. Corps of Engineers could have taken responsible action.

The stormwater agency should be proactive, rather than reactive. It knows when developments are undertaken and should monitor whether soil and water problems are caused.

I came to question the Stormwater Management Commission's (SMC) commitment when I learned that one of its "observers" had concluded that Cambridge was at "full compliance." It was only after Calvert and Mitchell rightfully complained that significant violations were occurring that SMC "took another look." Surprise!

There were violations. SMC gave Cambridge 10 days—and then another 10 days—to correct the violations.

In a letter to Calvert, SMC now contends that Cambridge has brought the site into compliance. SMC then states that it will continue to monitor the situation.

It's what SMC says after that sentence that bothers me. They say that unfortunately due to heavy inspection load they are limited on how much time they can spend and they will monitor the situation on a monthly basis. Sounds like a "cop-out."

SMC asks Calvert to contact them as soon as he sees any problems. They do know that Cambridge threw up "no trespassing signs" as soon as our "citizen advocates" nosed around to ferret out violations. Also, my logic may be deranged but I thought that the surveillance, especially after it has been found that a developer has been in violation, is the responsibility of the public agency, whose mission is to protect water quality and the natural drainage.

In its letter, SMC claimed the water samples are now within the regulations. It occurred to me that we have been in sort of a drought period, and I just wonder what a significant rain will do. Because I have doubts that the silt curtains will hold up, I hope that SMC doesn't think that it's up to me to monitor whether major contamination might occur.

Since the U. S. Corps of Engineers has responsibilities of the Wooster Lake shore line, it too should have been proactive. Why did they allow Cambridge to widen the channel without going through the permit process? Very interesting.

Mitchell said that she is "heartsick," after her 44 years on Wooster Lake, on seeing it being destroyed.

Naomi, and Ken, and Faith—keep fighting to protect your quality of life. You are on the right side of this issue, and public officials should join in to protect you and the environment.

By the way, keep gearing up for your next fight. As you know, developers have taken steps toward construction of townhouses on the "Miller Farm" property, which could also divert drainage to Wooster Lake. I've talked to Richard Hartman, vice president of the Grant Township Territory Association, and Dennis Olwzarski, and they, and your organization, have done their homework. KEEP UP THE FIGHT!

Lake County Fair demolition derby a smashing good time

Round Lake Beach's Joe Valente III wins 8th feature; Murken captures first 'B' Feature

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

The ultimatum from his wife Janel was simple.

"Because I had never won a Sunday event, if I won this, I'd quit competing in this altogether," said Joe Valente III, a Round Lake Beach resident. "If I didn't win the 'A' Feature today, I agreed to take a year off."

So what does Valente do? Finishing with one lost tire and a busted radiator, not to mention plenty of dents, he captures the 'A' Feature in convincing fashion.

"I'm kind of glad it's over. It's been a blast. But it's also turned out to be a matter of time and money. Plus, I want to spend more time with my wife," said Valente, a sales representative for Acura car dealership in Libertyville. "I'm pretty tired too, not to mention sore. All of those hits out there take their toll on you. I'm 32 and feel like I'm 60."

Valente should be a little sore, as he is no stranger to the demolition derby, having competed in the last 14 derbies. He's also no stranger to victory lane; having posted eight feature wins during that stretch. But again, take notice that all of them were on Saturday. In addition to the collection of hardware for winning the demolition derby, Valente also won the first pick-up demolition derby when it was introduced at the Lake County Fair four years ago.

As far as this year's victory was concerned, Valente kind of 'laid in the weeds' when the competition got down to the final two or three cars. Gurnee's Bob Anderson wound up second and Lake Villa's Ron Marshall third after both ran out of 'clock'.

In a demolition derby, being on the 'clock' means the competitor's car is motionless. If he or she doesn't move after two minutes expires, the car is black flagged, or out of the race.

Strategy also plays a huge factor in a demolition derby.

"Having a good running, rust-free car is key," said Valente, driving a 1967 Chrysler equipped with a 350 Chevy engine that he and his wife built. "I ran most of the feature with no coolant. But just as long as the engine runs, that's the main thing."

Valente has had the same engine in eight of his cars over the years.

Riding along side of Valente during the competition was son Brent, who plans on competing next year.

"This was my first year riding and it was a blast," said Brent, a 2002 graduate of Round Lake High School. "But you definitely get beat up a little. If your head doesn't hurt, your neck will."

Valente also plays in his own band, Phantom Stranger. The group is currently working on its second album, set to be released some time late fall.

Valente's sponsors for the event included: Italian Ovens in Grayslake, Music Source in Wildwood, Stevens Auto Repair in Geneva (Wis.), Ring's Radiator in Antioch, and RWS Express in Aurora.

Following Valente, Anderson and Marshall, the rest of the top-5 had Libertyville's Kirk Detlie fourth and Gurnee's Rick Borrow fifth. The top-5 earned cash prizes.

Grayslake's Brian Murken made the most of his second showing in the demolition derby.

It came down to Murken and Lake Forest native Zack Zabrosky in the waning seconds of the 'B' Feature.

Murken, driving his 1977 Chevy Malibu, got the best of it. Murken got four good pops in to the front end of Zabrosky's car, leading to a blown radiator, not to mention plenty of smoke.

"This was great," said Murken, who works at Hewitt Associates in Lincolnshire. "I didn't make the feature last year because of a broken radiator hose. It was like tunnel vision out there. But today, I just saw the track as a bigger picture."

Murken was also quick to credit Grayslake's Joe Best for coming up with the design on the car.

"We kind of picked at it (the car) and made adjustments during the last year," said Murken. "But Joe's definitely the one with the know-how when it comes to cars."

Roadside Auto Transport in Waukegan served as the primary sponsor for Murken's car.

After Murken and Zabrosky was Ingleside's Dan Cordova in third, Gurnee's Brian Baker fourth and Waukegan's William Mattson fifth.

"This is the capitol of demolition derbies," said announcer Emil Looze of Ingleside. "A lot of the big boys come out to play."

Looze has been working the Lake County Fair for 22 years, including the past two as the demolition derby announcer. He works for A La Carte Entertainment as a disc jockey, mostly at Famous Freddie's in Fox Lake.

The demolition derby, sponsored by Auto race Promotion, was Grand Prix style, where all of the cars start out facing the wall.

Youths learn basics while having fun

By MICHAEL J. BIVONA
Correspondent

Starting with a play-off game and ending with a certificate of completion, the Chicago White Sox-sponsored youth baseball camp ended with plenty of smiles.

Odom Field at the Butler Lake Baseball Fields in Libertyville was the host of the weeklong camp.

According to Coach Landvick, head instructor and head baseball coach at Trinity International University, the training centers are designed to teach youths fundamentals of the game.

'We learned how to bat and hit. We even learned singing stretches where we sang and stretched'

8 year-old Ryan Bennett,
attendee from Libertyville

"We want to improve the players abilities in baseball and give them a little confidence," Lundvick said. "We also want to teach them the sportsmanship of the game."

Skip Freeman of Gurnee, whose eight-year old son attended the camp, was very pleased with the way things worked out for the players.

"They get to learn basic skills and reinforcement. We would definitely do this again," Freeman said.

According to Ryan Bennett, an eight-year-old attendee, the camp not only taught him about baseball but also gave him the opportunity to meet new people.

"We learned how to bat and hit. We even learned singing stretches where we sang and stretched," Bennett said. "I also made a lot of friends."

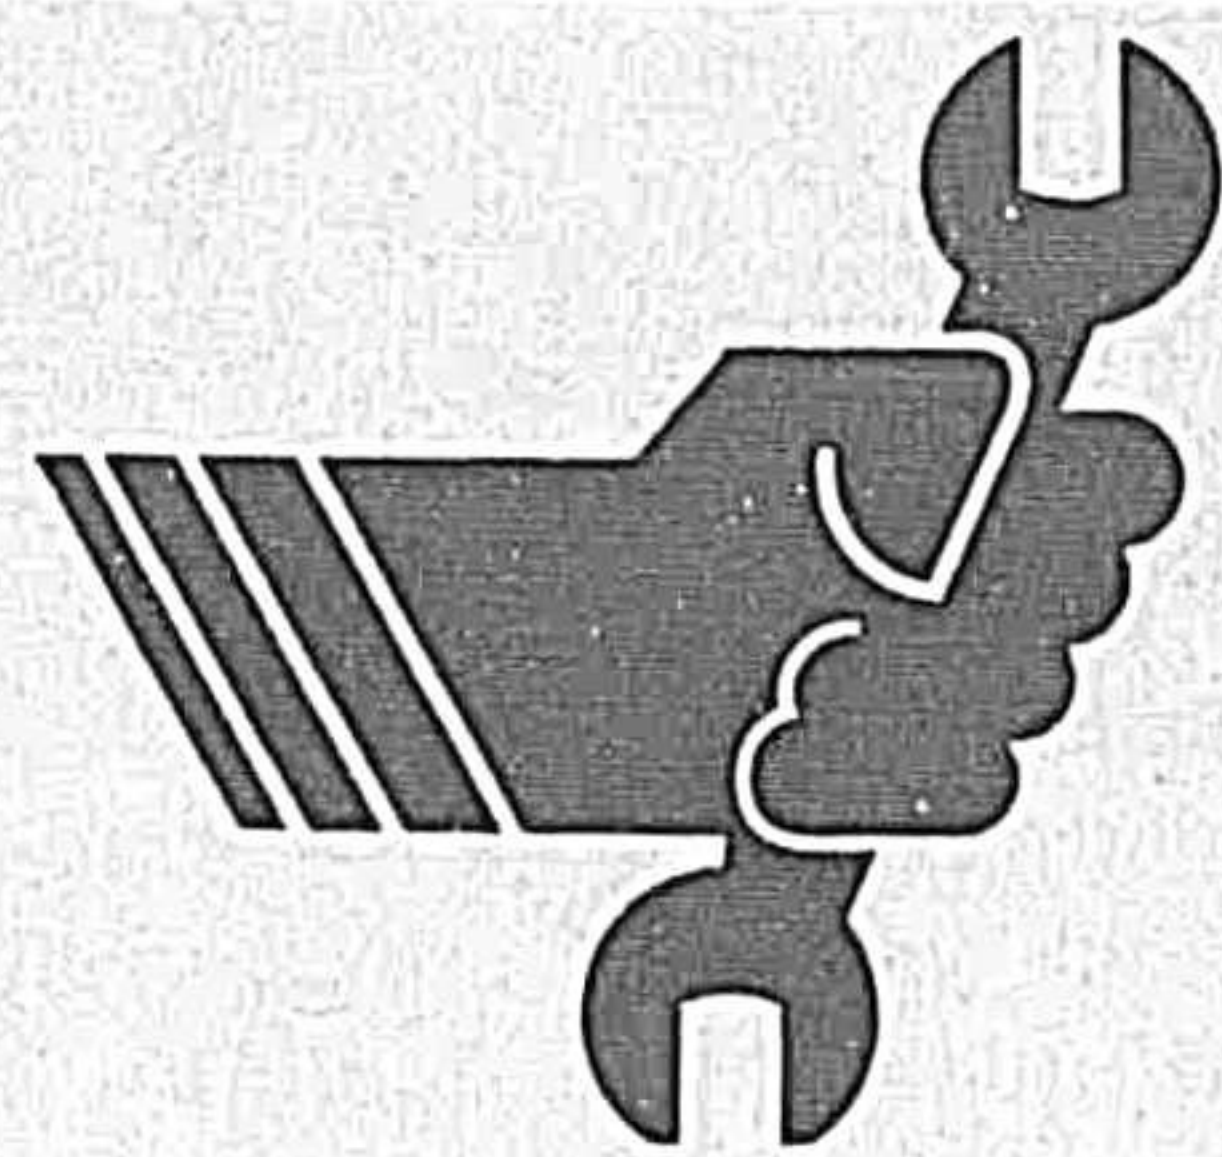

Eight-year old Jordan Hewitt had plenty fun as well.

"We learned ground position with fielding. And I made a lot of friends," Hewitt said.

The camp, now in its eighth-year, lasts one week at a time and travels to up to 165 different parts of the region. Over 30,000 youths have attended the camp since its inception.

The last day of the camp gave the players a chance to be a little more aggressive.

"We had a four-team 'World Series,'" Coach Jared Wacker said. "I think they like the competitiveness of it." When the games ended the players all sat in the bleachers and waited for each of their names to be called. When called they each stood in front of their applauding peers to accept their certificate.

Ted Williams Camps help youths hit more effectively

By WESLEY WARD
Correspondent

Former Boston Red Sox great Ted Williams past away a couple of short months ago. Yet he remains the last player to hit over .400 for a season.

It's not for the lack of trying that no major leaguer has accomplished that feat, but many of them never actually studied Williams' approach to hitting. In fact, today there are only a handful of centers that teach the Williams way.

Chicagoland hitting instructor Mike Huber has studied the Williams technique and adapted it using his knowledge of kinesiology to develop a style of hitting that he guarantees to players will see improvements within 1-2 weeks.

"Players I have taught have seen an increase in their batting average, homeruns, extra base hits and runs batted in," said Huber. "Williams observed that it is more effective to hit the ball level and because the ball travels downward towards the hitter, a level swing would then have to be slightly upward."

Through his own experiences with martial arts and biomechanics, Huber has built upon Williams' foundation and has many positive results.

Those results were a reflection of the St. Charles High School varsity baseball team, where Huber was the hitting coach from 1998-99.

The Fighting Saints won its first state championship while setting 14 new school records, including new marks of 44 homeruns and a 347 hits.

Like most of the players on that team, Jim Caine saw a drastic improvement in his hitting numbers, and finished the 1999 season with a school record .538 batting average.

Many of the players that have been taught Huber's system are now in the college ranks and two are playing at the professional level. Steve Checksfield currently leads the Michigan Battlecats with 15 homeruns and 71 RBI while Ray Goirigolzarri is hitting .328 with five homers and 30 RBI for Dubois County of the Frontier League.

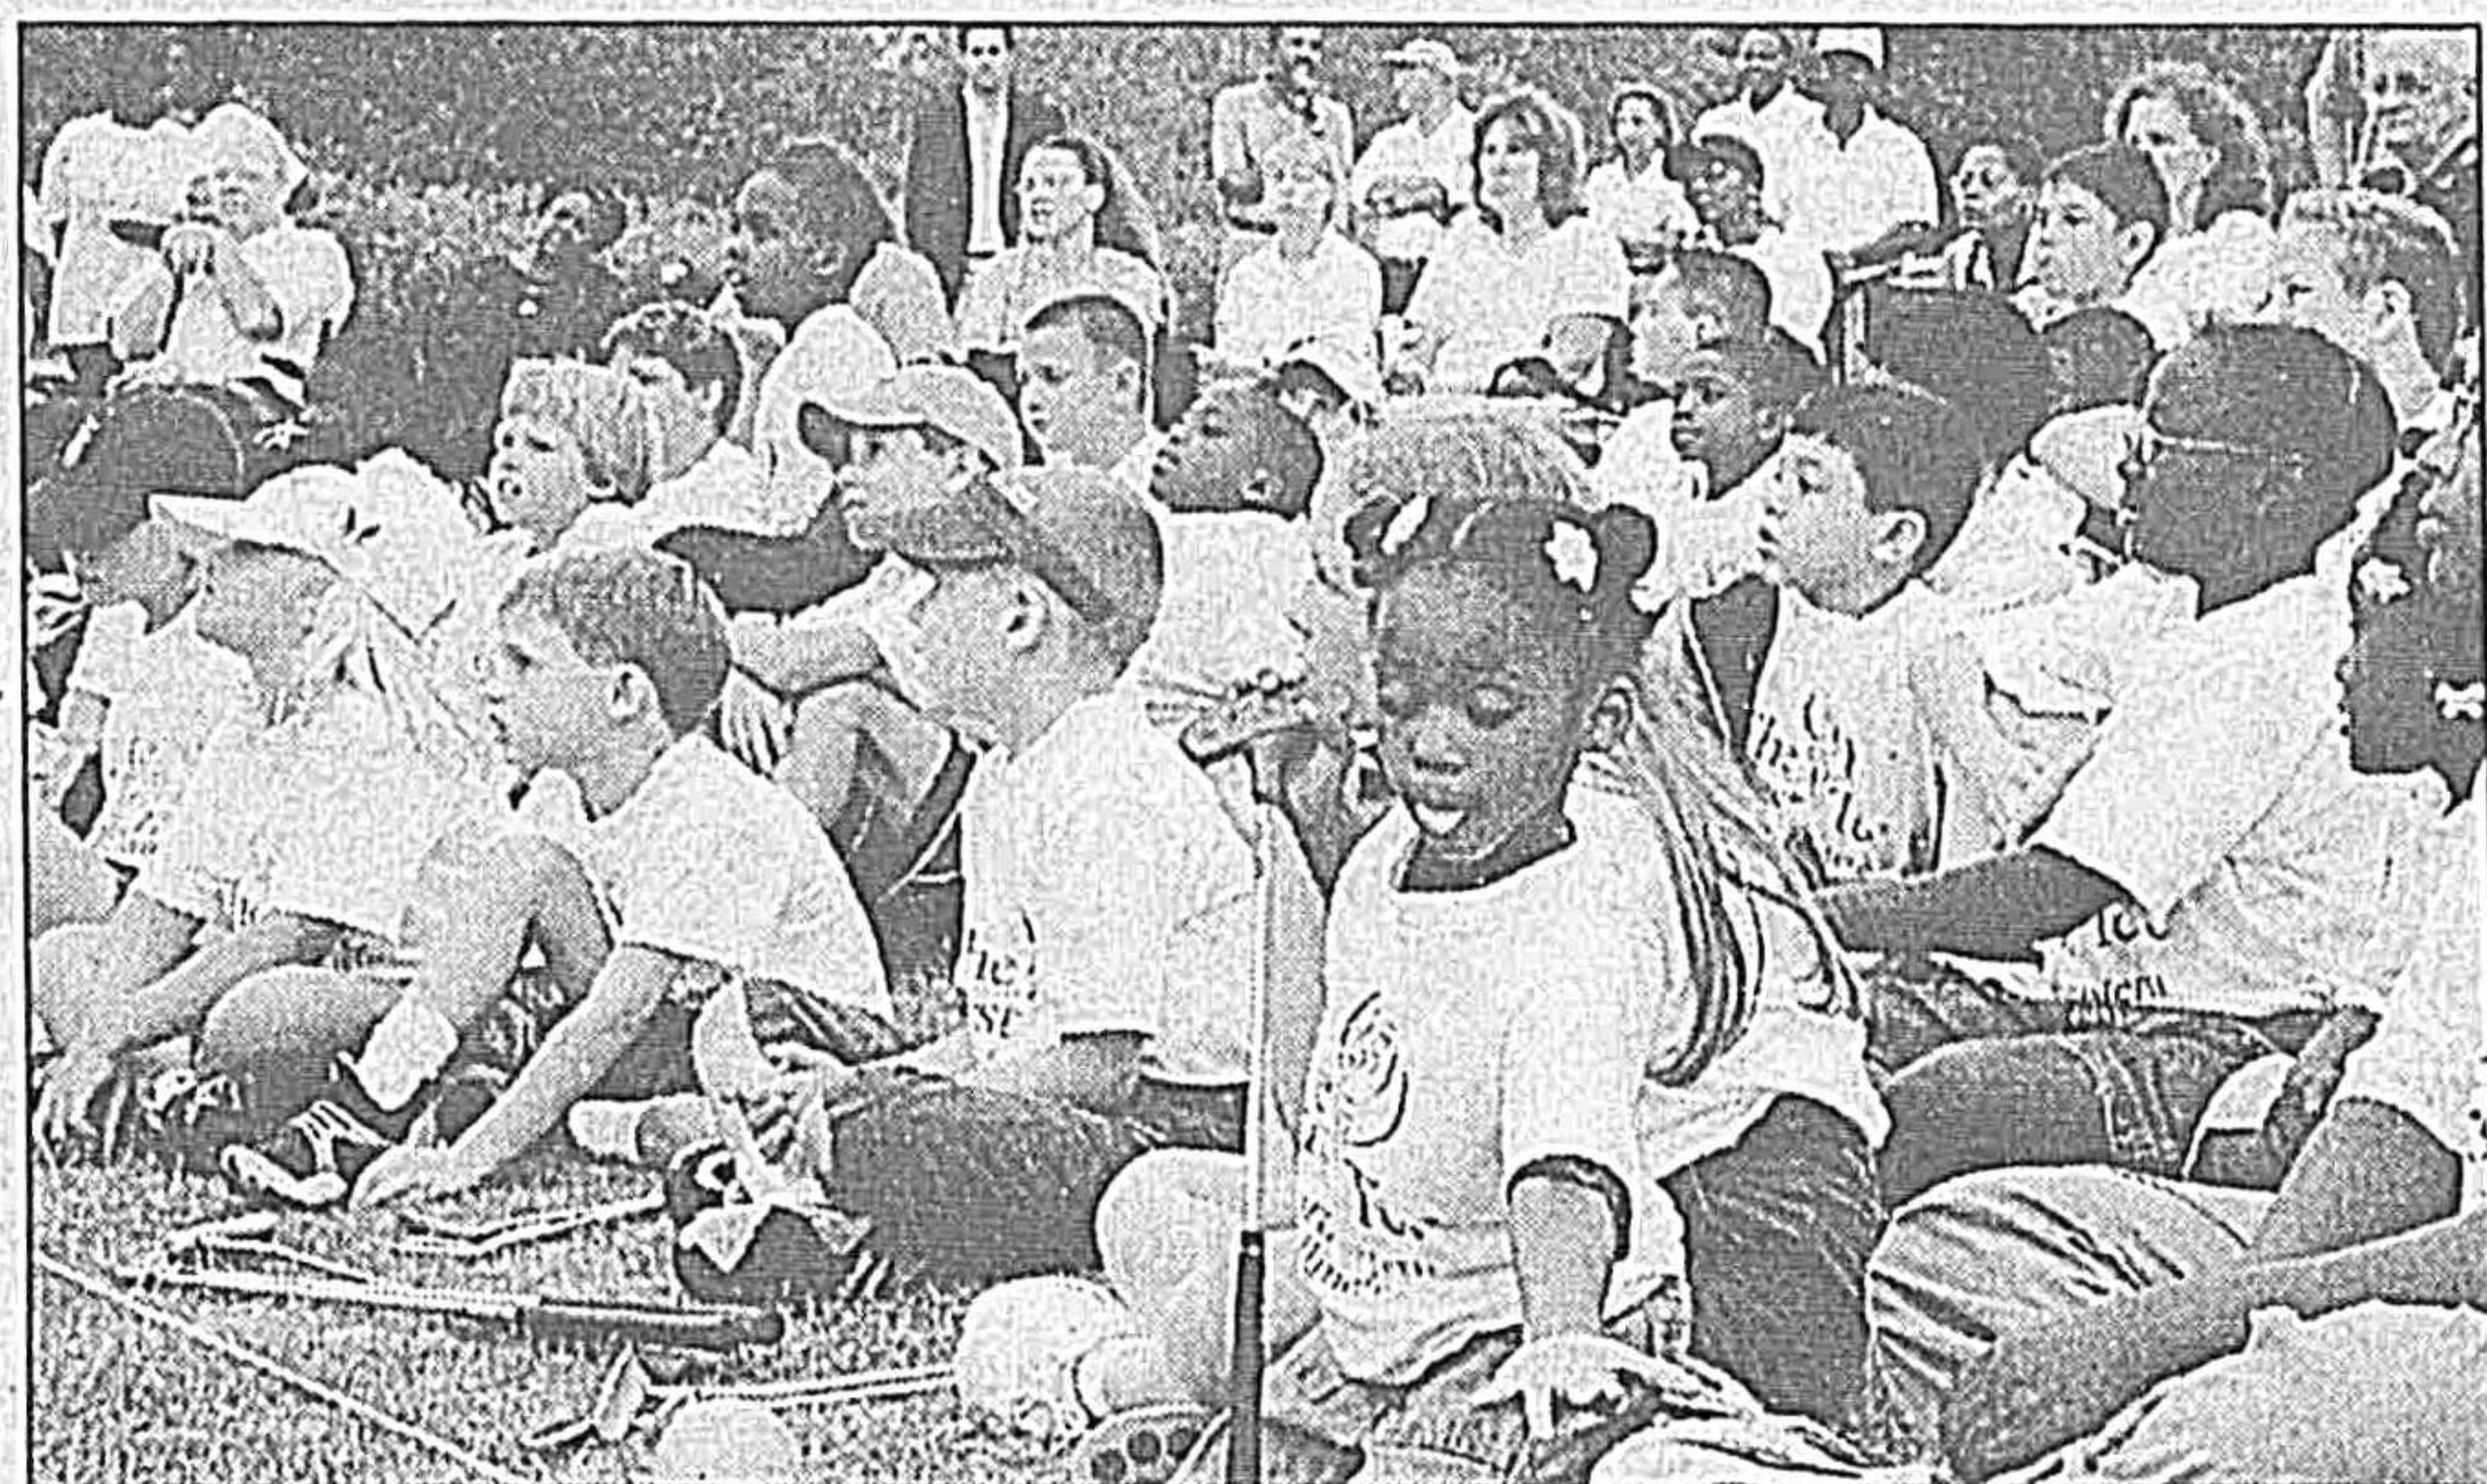

After teaching several baseball camps, Huber consistently heard complaints that kids were not hitting any better. So, he decided to research the hitting technique. He soon discovered that the Williams method had produced results and decided to use that as the basis for what he teaches today.

Huber currently travels to numerous high schools, colleges and to private sessions to consult players and coaches about the art of hitting. Huber is currently teaching numerous Illinois high school coaches his system.

Huber offers several teaching options for coaches, teams and individuals/groups. Information on the program can be found at www.hubiemagic.com.

News and notes

In the past 500 years, the game of golf has evolved from one that was once played with heavy hand-made wooden clubs and stuffed leather balls to the game we know today, using computer made clubs which have been dynamically tested to provide a more comfortable swing. With innovations in equipment comes the introduction of the Shorty Golf Putter, guaranteed to improve and lower your scores. During putting, this new invention guarantees an easier way to read grain while consequently lowering the score.

The inventor, Tim McNichols, an avid golfer from Carpentersville, first conceived the idea seven years ago and began to materialize the concept in Jan. of this year. Breaking his putter one day, he continued to use it and noticed an improvement in his score.

This original idea is now being made available for licensing to manufacturers interested in new product development, especially in the golf industry. McNichols is hoping to have the Shorty Golf Putter in full production and available to the public in the very near future.

Additional information on the new putter can be obtained by calling the publicity/press department of Invention Technologies, Inc. at 800-940-9020, ext. 285 or at the web site products@invent-tech.com.

Invention Technologies, Inc. is a Coral Gables, Florida-based firm that is handling the publicity and public relations for the Shorty Golf Putter.

We love grandma and grandpa, but...

Hi Dr. Singer,

We have 2 kids, aged 5 and 7. Our problem is that grandma and grandpa are living with us on a permanent basis and they consistently get in the way of our discipline decisions. We set the rules and the kids know that they can get my parents on their side and get out of it. It is infinitely frustrating because when the kids get out of control based on this interference, then my parents begin to comment on how inept they think I am at controlling my kids. I have always been very sensitive to their commentary. My husband is about ready to throw his hands up in the air! It's maddening. Do other people go through this? Can you suggest anything? Signed...Frazzled.

PARENT'S PLACE

Dear Frazzled,
You've got a tough situation, but not one that is uncommon! I hear this at least 2-3 times a week in my office and I usually have some very straightforward things to say.

Grandparent commentary is pretty much a trait of the American family, however, when it gets to the point of derailing parental discipline decisions, it is destructive for everyone involved. Try not to be too angry though, Grandma and Grandpa just want to be involved and a part of the family decisions. They live with you and therefore, need to be taken into consideration. If you try to ignore, they will need to push harder. If you try to scold, they will become defensive and become the enemy. There are better ways.

You did not mention what type of discipline you are using so it is difficult for me to comment on whether your parent's opinion might have some validity. If you are doing appropriate discipline with your kids, and your parent's commentary is off target, the first thing I would tell you is that you need to not take the commentary to heart. Besides, they are probably more concerned about the future of your kids than about how you are doing things. Try and get a little bit of mental distance from this so that you can feel more relaxed about it. What your parents think about how you raise your kids should not be your primary concern as long as you are being appropriate about your discipline.

The best way to handle this is to set up a structured behavior program in your household that everyone can use the same way. The most important thing in helping kids to behave is consistency and logic. Language needs to be the same. Action needs to be the same. As I said before, Grandma and Grandpa are trying to be a part of the family, but they are doing it in a haphazard way. Why not give them specific tasks to do with regard to discipline. It might make them feel really important that you are asking them to be involved. A good program will have specific lines of action for each and every misbehavior. If you can help to train them in the ways of the behavior program and make them feel involved like it is important for them to be a back-up for you, it may completely change their viewpoint of the problem and help them to feel more on your side. The important thing is that everyone in the household should know the behavior program "backwards and forwards" so that it is automatic and there isn't any hesitation. When you and the grandparents start to squabble over who is right about what should be done, the kids are watching that and coming to the conclusion that all adults in this household are out of control and ineffective.

The logical outgrowth of that is more bad behavior. I have had many people come to me to learn my behavior program and they bring the grandparents with them so everyone is doing the same thing.

Try and explain to the grandparents the philosophy behind your discipline at a time when things are calm and not out of control. If they are reasonable people, and you are being appropriate with your discipline, they will be able to understand. Since I don't know anything about your household, I will also comment on the "unreasonable" alternative. If they are unreasonable and are not listening to anything you have to say, it is time to get everyone in to a session with a therapist who can play referee. Reality says that you are the parents and the owners of this home. The grandparents are guests in your home and not the parents of these kids. If you are doing abusive things to the kids, it is the grandparents duty to stop that from happening, however, if it is about you trying to set rules and trying to follow through in a non-abusive way, they should not be in the primary role or in the middle of it, and need to be told that. In fact, there may be many other Psychological dynamics from your own childhood playing out here that may need therapeutic intervention with a Psychologist. You might be getting very defensive right from the start based on old problems and that may color your responses. You need to decide whether that is the case or not. At any rate, if they are being completely unreasonable and not listening at all, and it is totally disruptive to everyone's life in an ongoing way, you might need to think about making other living arrangements for them. That is a tough decision and a decision that only you can make. It isn't something that anyone can tell you to do. You just need to weigh your options here and try to be realistic about what is best for everyone involved.

Seeking the gift of sight

Guide dog training an expensive necessity for local woman

By CHRISTY BLANDFORD
Staff Reporter

Although many people don't think twice about simple task of crossing the street, the thought of it terrifies Lisa Argyrakis.

Argyrakis, who has been blind since birth, has not been able to complete this everyday task on her own for months. Because she is unable to afford training for her new guide dog — which she said her life revolves around — she has spent little time outside of her own home.

"(Guide dogs) are extremely important to me," she said. "Without a dog I would have little to no independence. A lot of people who are blind use canes, but I don't trust a cane. My guide dogs are everything — I'm not comfortable leaving my house without a dog."

Argyrakis, who lives in Round Lake Beach, was forced to begin the expensive process of training her fourth guide dog in 16 years since her former guide dog, Weaver, was retired due to chronic stomach ulcers and seizures.

A large portion of the cost was alleviated when her friend Cathy Sabin of Grayslake, a dog breeder and owner of B.C. Dog Training and Pet Supply in Mundelein, donated a purebred Doberman Pinscher puppy, Driver, to work as Argyrakis's new guide.

Because Argyrakis's disability prevented her from caring for the puppy herself, her friend Suzanne Morgan of Wauconda, is working as a puppy raiser with her husband Ernie, training the dog basic obedience and socialization skills.

"Our job is to take (Driver) wherever we can," Morgan said. "He goes shopping with me, he loves riding escalators, he goes to restaurants. Whenever we can, we take him with us to get him used to different environments and crowds."

Although Morgan is teaching the dog how to respond in an atmosphere outside of the home, this is only the basic foundation of a guide dog's training.

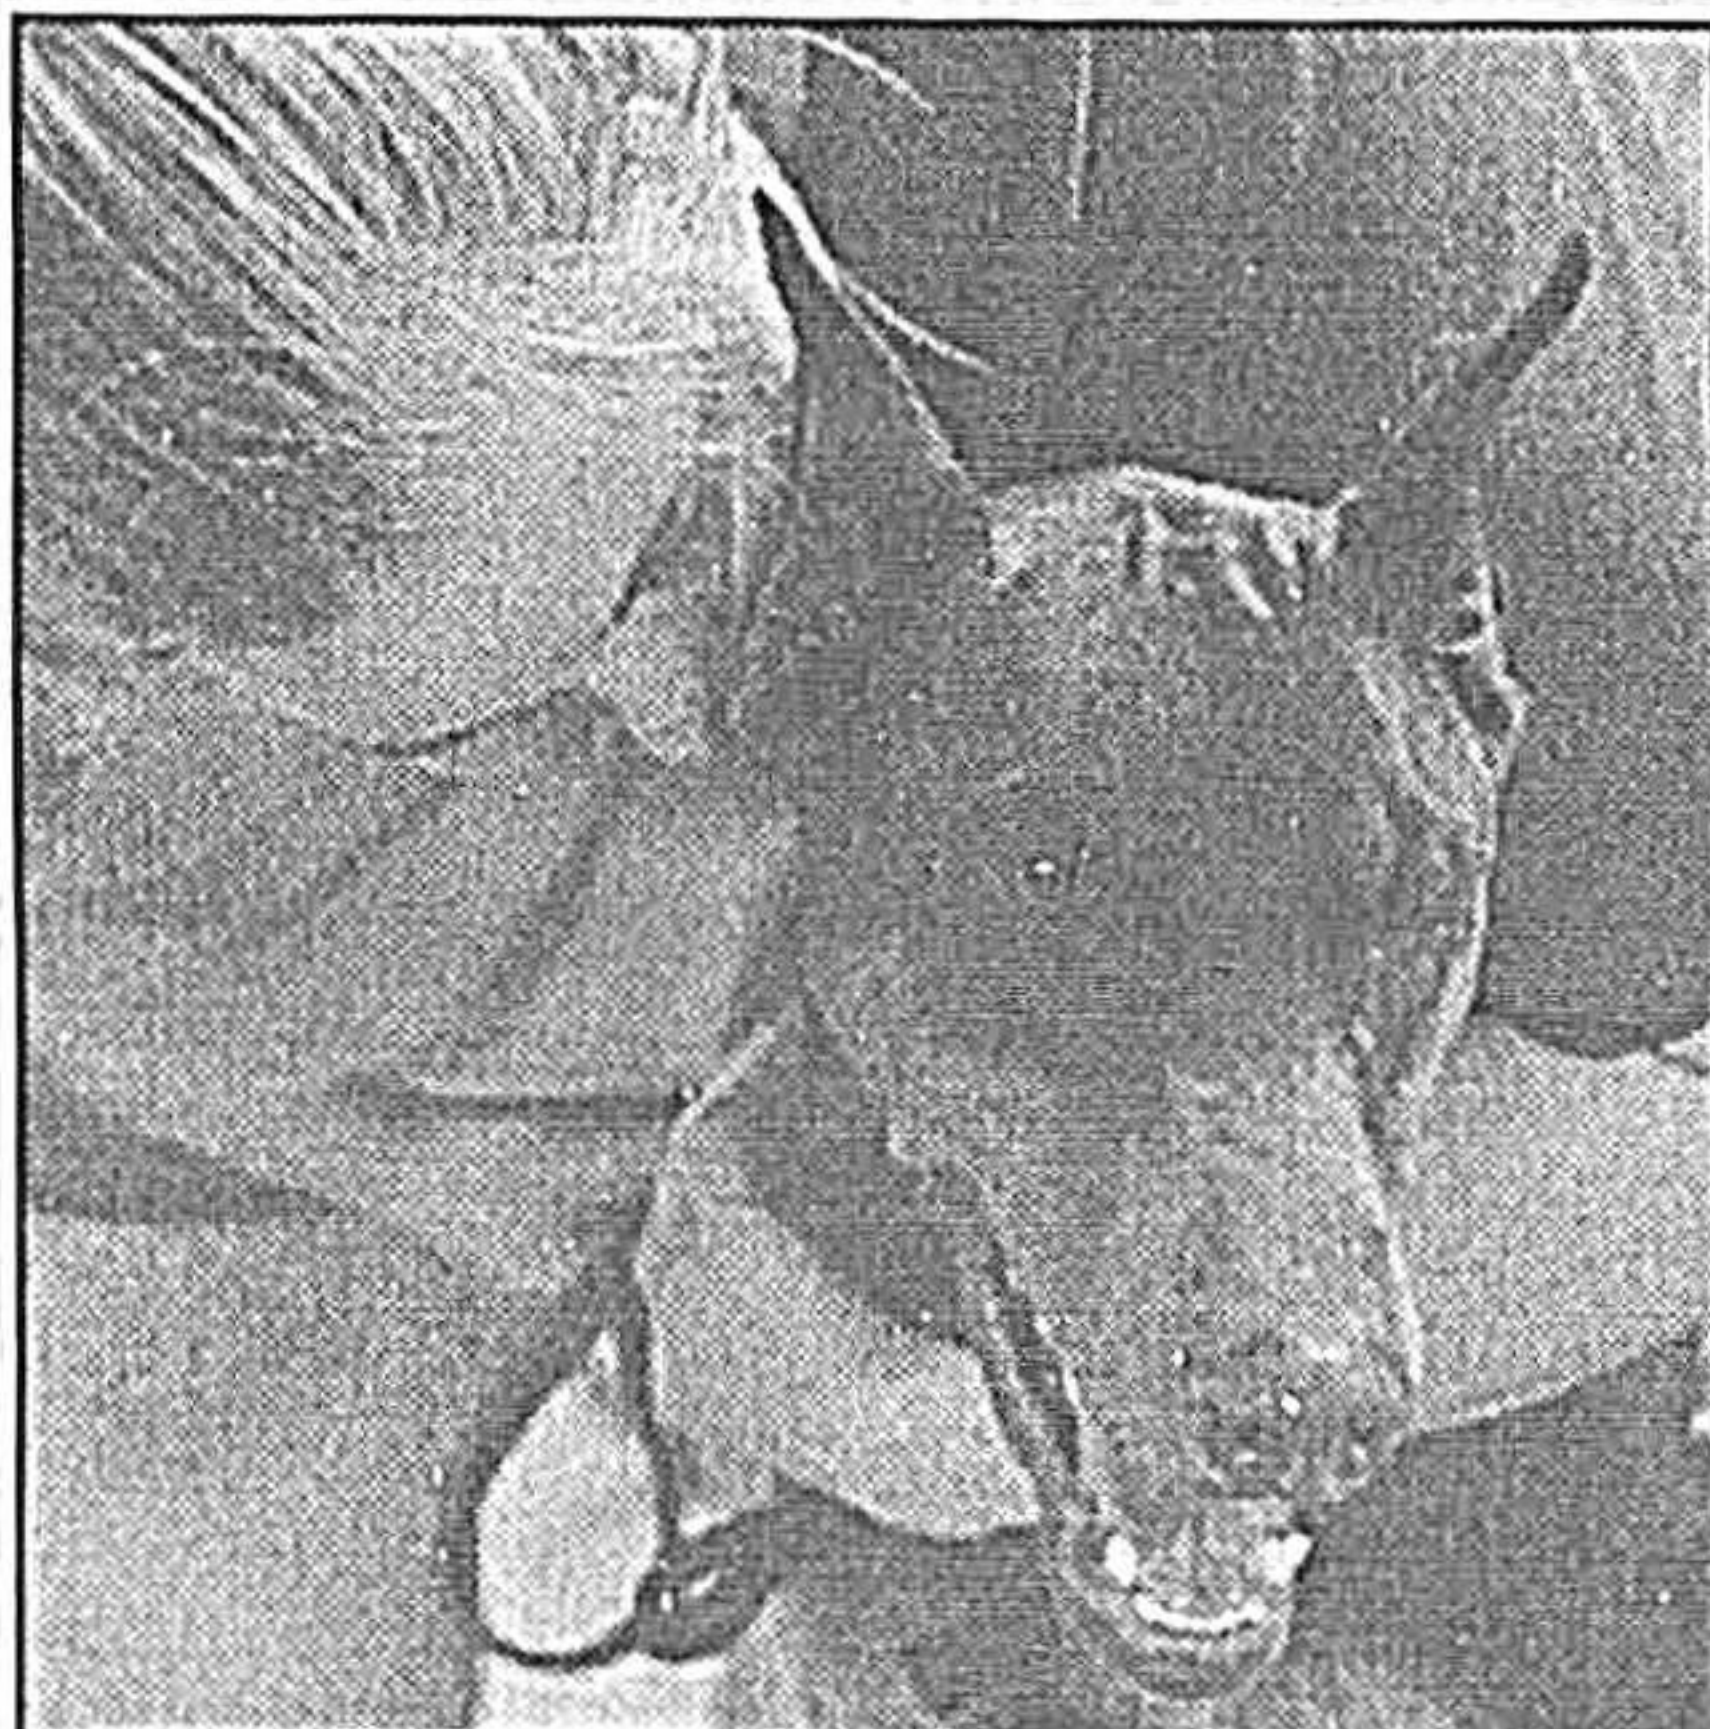

Sabin said Driver will need to learn more advanced skills, such as knowing when it's safe to cross the street, which is training she cannot provide, but Mark Castellero, a licensed trainer in Vista, California can.

"I have never known how to teach a dog how to do these things, and I don't want to try and wreck a dog that's doing so well," Sabin said. "There are other private trainers, but this trainer is licensed to do this. The fact that he is licensed is extremely important — he knows what he's doing."

Working with a fixed income of solely Disability and Social Security — which totals $543 per month — Argyrakis is faced with the problem paying for the licensed guide dog training, which is estimated at $10,180.

Although the training is out of her budget, Argyrakis said she is seeking to have her dog trained by Castellero, a licensed private trainer, because she had many problems with guide dog schools in the past.

Sabin said she first met Argyrakis six years ago when she visited her Mundelein shop looking for help solving the behavioral problems her first dog — who was trained at a guide dog school — was exhibiting.

This problem was not an isolated incident, however, which has spurred her to seek help from a licensed trainer rather than a guide dog school.

"It was one of the most heartbreaking things that has ever happened to me," Argyrakis said. "My first dog of three years became stressed by the harness and instead of helping me with the problem, the school took the dog away and he was retired. I never saw the dog again and it was just terrible."

Sabin said even if Argyrakis decided to take Driver to a guide dog school despite her previous experiences, the schools probably would not want to train him because they breed their own dogs, train them and distribute them on their own to applicants.

Although Argyrakis, Sabin and Morgan have been seeking donations from organization to help alleviate the training costs, they said there has been little money donated because they are seeking assistance from an individual rather than an organization.

"That's the biggest obstacle we're facing — we're trying to raise money for an individual cause and that's very frustrating," Morgan said. "Driver's ready to go — (the money's) all that we're waiting for. With the budget and her income, the two just can't make it."

A bank fund was set up in Argyrakis's name for those wishing to help her pay for the training through a donation. Donations can be sent to the Lisa Argyrakis Designated Driver Fund, account number 185017657, Attn: Dorothy Benjamin, Harris Bank Libertyville, 354 N. Milwaukee Avenue, Libertyville, IL 60048.

Argyrakis said she deeply appreciates any donations, as they will pay for Driver's training and allow her fears of leaving her home to subside.

"I couldn't even describe how much I appreciate it — I couldn't even put into words how much it would mean to me," she said.

If you must give up your beloved pet, please consider these suggestions. *Free animal ads suggest that there is something wrong with the animal, or that it has no value. *Some people who respond to these free animal ads are imposters and are only concerned about making a profit and not the animal's welfare. *Charging a fee to a potential pet owner confirms the responsibility of pet ownership for an entire lifetime of that pet. How To Survive The Job Search By Nancy Sakol

Q: I hope you can help me with a problem I am having at work. I was recently promoted to a position in the accounting department where I handle accounts payable. I am in a department with two other people who handle the same thing I do but for separate divisions. Each day we receive a stack of invoices to be paid and need to match them up with the proper documentation before we can set them up for payment in our system. I am struggling to get the proper documentation I need to complete my process. There seems to be so much to remember and I am getting no help at all. I basically came into this position because my boss pushed for me to be promoted because I have such a good eye for detail. I feel like I am drowning and wonder now if perhaps I didn't take on too much. I walked into the position after the last person left. I believe the supervisor almost expects that I could walk right in and do this job, when the truth is, I have never done accounts payable and my former boss knew that.

A: It sound like your former boss had a lot of faith in your capabilities. It's some training you need, do not be afraid to ask. Accounts payable functions can be time consuming when you are waiting for other parties to turn over documentation. Don't wait for them to come to you. Go to them and tell them what you need. Whether it is a signature on an invoice to authorize payment, a bill of lading to prove the company received goods, or a signed purchase order authorizing the purchase for the bill in question, you need to asset yourself. The last thing you want is for your boss to come to you to find out why he/she is receiving calls from companies saying that their account is past due. By then it might be too late for you. The bills could pile up quickly, leaving your new boss to wonder whether or not you are capable. Ask questions such as, "could you give me some insight as to the best way to approach certain individuals to sign off on invoices?" or, "What would you personally suggest as an effective way to process invoices so that I can be sure I am doing it the way you find most satisfactory?" Give it a try. It couldn't hurt and it could strengthen your working relationship with your boss with the idea that you want his/her opinion on their recommended way to get the job done! Good luck.

In Search of the Perfect Job

By Scott T. Fleischmann

Is there a perfect job for me? It is the most asked question regarding careers. Unfortunately, I need to give each inquirer the same answer. There are no perfect jobs. However, each of us is better suited for some jobs than for others.

Before we look at how to identify the best job for you we need to understand why there are no perfect jobs. By definition, a perfect job would mean that we like every aspect of our jobs all of the time. Some customers are unreasonable, some co-workers are inconsiderate and some tasks are outright onerous. The goal then in finding the best job is to find the job that will be the most enjoyable.

The best way to do that is to know yourself as well as possible, and then to get a good understanding of the nature of potential jobs. The most common problem in the completion of that process is self-understanding. Over time we each create a self-image that is not completely accurate. In order to correct those inconsistencies we need to do some soul searching. That process can be painful because we have mostly overlooked our faults. Coming to grips with those defects can be disturbing.

But for those who truly want to find that elusive best job accurate self-perception is essential. There are three tools that can be used by those who want to take that important first step. Here they are:

ASK OTHERS Those who know you best will be able to give you great insight about how others perceive you. Be brutal. Ask for honest input on your strengths and your weaknesses. Ask those with whom you have an affinity and those who don't necessarily have the same worldview as you do. Evaluate every comment for accuracy. Some comments will have some flaws so you will need to filter them. Above all do not take the comments personally. If someone makes an inaccurate negative comment about you assume that they are trying to give you the help that you are seeking. Assure them before you ask any questions that your self-discovery pursuit is sincere and that you will carefully consider their input.

READ There are numerous great books on self-evaluation. Many of them are specifically related to career development and job searches. They can be found at your local library or bookstore. I can recommend two. What Color Is Your Parachute, (Richard Nelson Bolles, Ten Speed Press) is a complete career evaluation guide with an emphasis on preference analysis. Do What You Are (Paul D. Tieger and Barbara Barron-Tieger, Little, Brown and Company) uses the structure of the Myers-Briggs type indicator to identify four life forming characteristics.

EVALUATION Although professional career counseling is expensive there are companies that provide remote services through the mail. Typically they use similar tests and results but the remote aspect keeps the costs lower.

A complete self-evaluation is time, energy and resource consuming. But the process is essential for those who are intent of finding the job that best job.

Papa's Palace packing in patrons near Navy base

Restaurant does booming business in unlikely area

By DENYS BUCKSTEN
Staff Reporter

About 18 months ago, on Sheridan Road just north of 22nd Street in North Chicago, sat the shell of a former Burger King Restaurant.

The nearly 40-year-old building, in that blighted business district on the west side of the railroad tracks, is directly across from Great Lakes Naval Base.

Great location for a restaurant, if the gates are re-opened and you could send delivery drivers onto the base; not so good if the rumors of 22nd Street being extended east across the tracks and the gate re-opening does not materialize.

Along come Anna and Louis Papandreou, owners for nearly 10 years of Pizza Palace, just east of Green Bay Road on 22nd Street, who were looking for a new challenge.

The Papandreous decided they had the name recognition, restaurant experience, capital, work ethic and guts to make the place work. So they leased the site with an option to buy, and spent the next nine months rehabbing it.

The Papandreous, with an extended family of children and young adults, opened Papa's Palace, named after Louis, on Feb. 22, and saw patrons, including sailors, begin to drift in.

Papa's Palace, open 24 hours, got no help from the City of North Chicago, said Anna, adding that the 3,200 square foot eatery required a lot of work and plenty of cash to give it some personality.

Although the square-ish building and familiar roof line would be hard to disguise, the store interior is filled with sounds, images, aroma, ceiling TVs with cable, and décor that can whet a person's appetite. And Papa's Palace has lots of ashtrays; the surgeon general's warnings notwithstanding, sailors and the general public still like their smokes.

But it's not until one is handed a menu that the drool factor kicks in. It has nearly 150 items, from an exotic array of appetizers, including calamari, salads, 14 types of pizza, wraps, specialty sandwiches, six different chicken sandwiches, seven different hamburgers, cold plates, pitas, gyros, sub sandwiches, chicken ribs and fish entrees, steaks and chops, pasta specialties and an array of desserts.

And that doesn't even include the breakfast menu, which fills three pages with small type, Greek omlets to grits, reflecting the owners' culture and that of many patrons, including farm boy sailors from the Deep South.

"People down here love their chicken, fish, especially shellfish, and ribs," said Anna, pointing to that part of the menu, which takes up half a page. "But the big thing is breast of chicken. We're really good at chicken breasts. Most of the ones on the sandwiches are eight to 10 ounces."

Why stay open 24 hours, asks a reporter. "Because," said Anna, "we tried to close our other store (Pizza Pasta) at 3 a.m. and people were still banging on the windows, asking for food. By the time you stay open to 3 or 4 a.m., you're ready to serve breakfast."

"So, we figured we'd try 24 hours here, too."

Twenty-four hours, even if you don't get any sleep? "I've been here five months and I still have not made it home," said Anna. "Having a business like this is like taking care of a small child."

TEENS

tuition and there's still stuff I need to get for college," Sheets said. "Almost all of my friends work too. We're all trying to get money for school."

Rather than enjoying the hot summer in a cold pool, Bob Reich, a recent Grayslake High School graduate chose instead to work as a lifeguard at the Esper A. Petersen Aquatic Center in Grayslake this summer. Reich said working was not an option for him because of the impending college tuition costs.

"I needed money for college because Purdue University is a very expensive school," Reich said. "Most of my friends are working too."

Aquatic Center manager Alex Santos said Reich is not unique in seeking employment at the water park, although they have seen a decrease in returning employees.

"We opened three years ago and we've had more and more people applying each year," Santos said.

In addition to a larger number of teenagers applying at some local businesses despite the statistics, a larger number of teens are also opting to spend their summer back in the classroom.

The College of Lake County reports that their summer enrollment has increased this year from 7,432 last summer to 8,194 this summer.

Nicole Norton, 19 of Round Lake Beach, decided to make money for school and earn credits as well this summer. In addition to working as a habilitation aide at the Wright Home in Gurnee, she is also taking a class at CLC. She said the money she makes over the summer allows her school year to be less stressful.

FAIR

dance drop to the last week's unfavorable weather.

"I can't think of anything else other than the weather," he said. "It rained for two days in the morning and Sunday was awfully, awfully hot, but there were a lot of things that drew people in."

Fair Board member Susan Richards said the weather might not have been the only factor causing the decrease in attendance.

"Weather was a factor on a couple of days, but it's hard to say," Richards said. "People may be watching their money a little closer and not going to as many activities as in the past."

Despite the lower attendance, Richards said those who did attend enjoyed the entertainment.

"I think people had a good time," she said. "I think they really enjoyed themselves with the new attractions."

Obenauf said this year's most popular attractions included the new rodeo, demolition derby, the petting zoo, a new funhouse and the Budweiser Clydesdales.

The Board of Directors is already in the planning stages for next year's 75th annual Lake County Fair, Obenauf said, and although nothing has been finalized, a few ideas are being discussed.

"We're talking about a Western theme, but nothing is finalized at this point," Obenauf said.

Richards said the board plans on making next year special with new events yet to be planned, but she anticipates nothing will be too different in order to retain the fair's charm.

"I think just we're trying to go the way we have gone and elaborate on that and just try to make it a special week by celebrating the fair as it is," she said.
